

BUSTER'S NEW GOAT

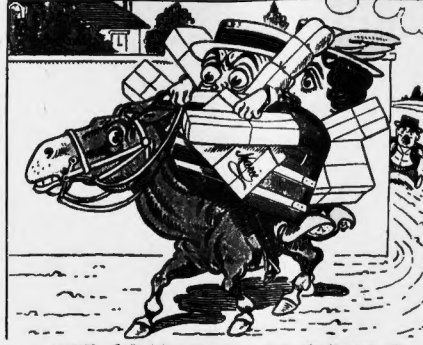

LULU AND LEANDER ELOPE, BUT—

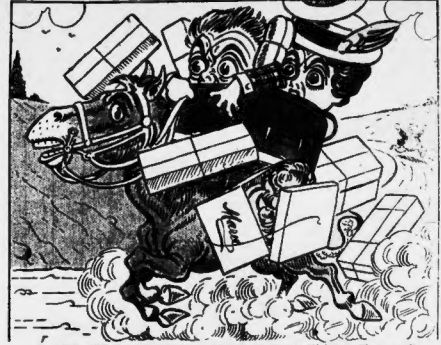

Copyright, 1946, by the American-Journal Syndicate. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

1. LEANDER: "Goodness me, Lulu, how are we going to elope with all this stuff? If I had known this I would have brought a truck!"
LULU: "Stuff! The very idea! I take this 'stuff' or I don't go at all. For two plus I wouldn't elope with you! Now be careful of your noise. Popper is very easily awakened when he is taking his afternoon nap."

2. LEANDER: "Really, Lulu, I don't see how we are going to manage with all these things."
LULU: "Leander, I don't believe you wish to elope at all, you are so continually seeing difficulties. One may not need an imported bride to elope in, but one must have clothes."

3. LULU: "Oh, Leander, stop him! There goes my beautiful hat! There go all my boxes! Leander, do you hear me!—stop him!"
LEANDER: "Gee whiz, Lulu, how can I?"
POPPER: "Hold on there, you kidnapper! Hold on there!"

4. LULU: "Oh, there goes my trunk—and everything! Leander, you are a careless brute! Do you hear me? I will NOT elope with you!"
LEANDER: "How can I help it, Lulu! You persisted in bringing all this wardrobe!"
POPPER: "Ha, ha! Villain! Follied again!"

5. LULU: "Oh, this is awful! Leander, you are a brute! I don't love you any more!"
LEANDER: "Ye gods! I believe she thinks more of her clothes than she does of me!"
POPPER: "I'll show you—both of you! Oh, I'll show you, I will!"

6. POPPER: "Now, miss, I'm going to fix you so there'll be no more chance of your eloping. To Europe for yours!"
LULU (sighs): "We will see. Poor, poor Leander. It was all my fault."
LEANDER: "Ye gods! That settles it. We will NEVER marry! I firmly believe it."

FIERCE! FIERCE! OH, FIERCE! But It's Happy's Job!

Copyright, 1946, by the American-Journal Syndicate. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

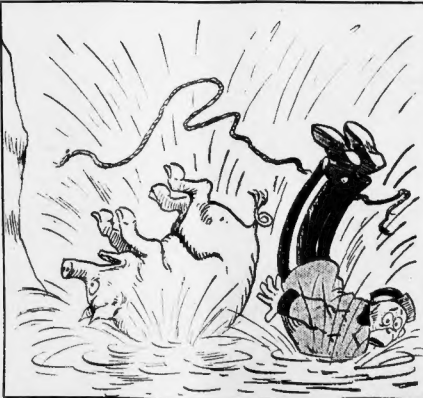

DR. DIPPY'S RETREAT
THE FIERY STEED IS READY!
HERE COMES MAZEPPA, ME LORD!

DR. DIPPY'S RETREAT
COME ON, MACDUFF, I'M HOLDING THE HORSE.
I'VE GOT HIM, YER HONOR!

THEY'RE OFF
GIDDAP!

DIS JOB IS SUMPIN' FIERCE!

POPPER

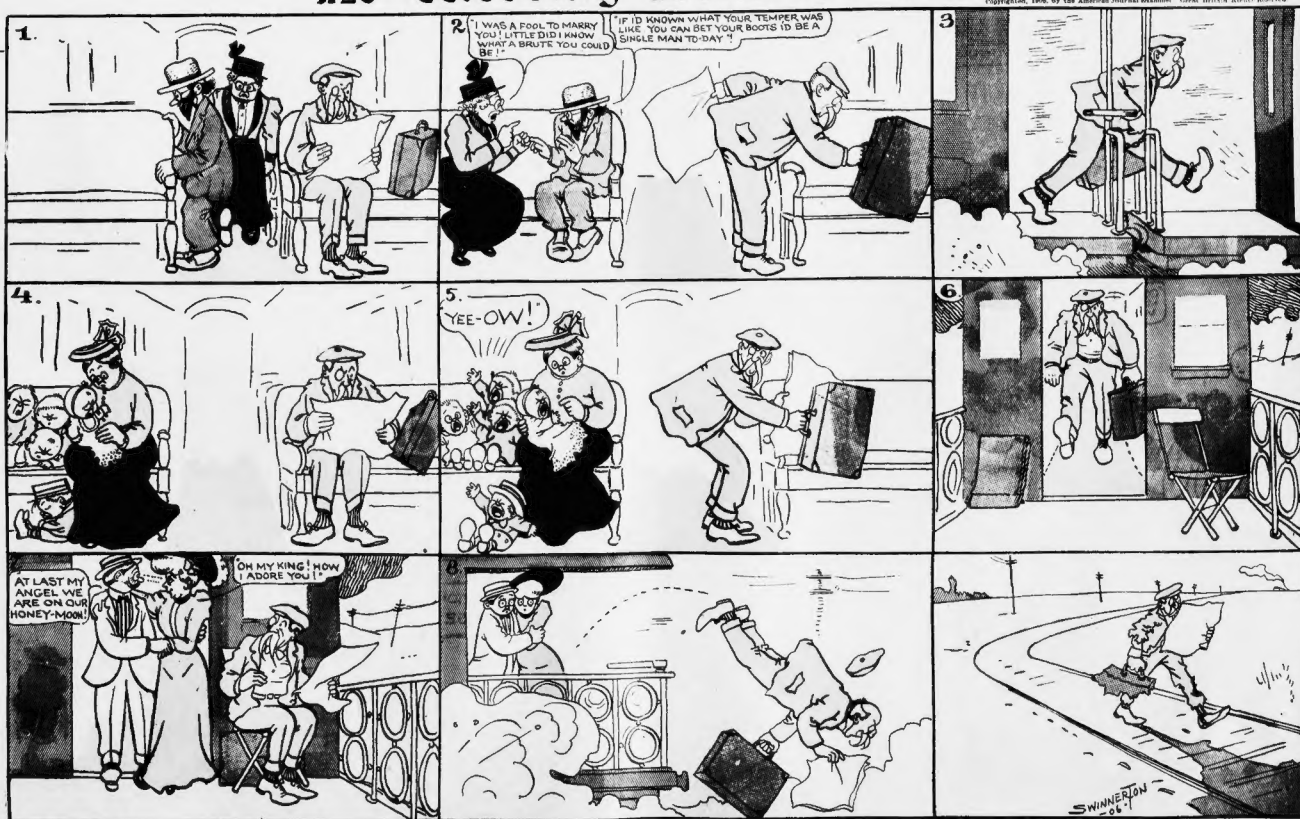

MAUD IS ON THE WAY TO THE MOUNTAIN HOUSE!

Copyright, 1906, by the American Journal Publisher. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

No Wedding Bells for Him!

Copyright, 1906, by the American Journal Publisher. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

Copyright, 1995, by the American Journal Examiner. Great Britain Rights Reserve

Copyright 1998 by the American Journal Examines. Great Britain: Rights Reserved.

SAD TRAGEDY OF A MOST UNUSUAL HONEYMOON

How
THE BRIDAL BALLOON
COLLAPSED IN MID-AIR AND THE COUNT NAZZARI
LOST HIS BRIDE OF A NIGHT IN THE ANGRY WATERS OF THE ADRIATIC.

Mlle
NAZZARI,
THE UNFORTUNATE BRIDE.

THE most pitiful tragedy that ever resulted from the perils of aerial navigation has just thrown the leading noble families of Milan, Italy, into deep mourning.

A fair young bride of only a day past her life in this great tragedy of the upper air.

Count Nazzari, the youthful head of an ancient and wealthy family of Milan, was, like that other young millionaire, M. Santos-Dumont, passionately devoted to aeronautics. He was perpetually experimenting with new devices for solving the great problem of aerial navigation. It was his constant occupation, and he spent almost his entire income upon it. He has been the owner of twenty-five balloons and airships. He made ascents in them continually. He had a great many accidents, but always came back alive after getting into the most perilous situations. He escaped being smashed to pieces once by grabbing at a window sill as his balloon fell to the ground, and on another occasion by clutching at the branches of a tall tree. He got out of so many troubles so luckily that his friends said he had a charmed life.

Count Nazzari became engaged to a lovely girl, who took the greatest interest in his favorite amusement. They were both reckless, daring, original and full of high spirits. They decided that they would have a honeymoon quite different from any that had ever been heard of. They would spend their honeymoon in the air. Instead of seeking off mysteriously to some unknown place, as wedded couples are wont to do, they would rise triumphantly into the air before their assembled friends and slowly fade away into the blue heavens.

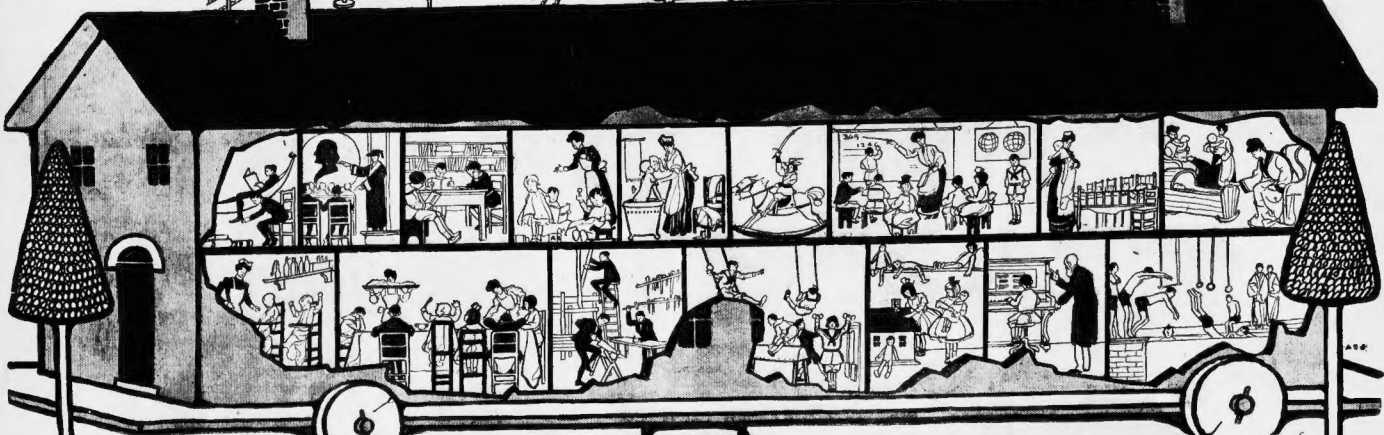

Count Nazzari prepared his latest airship for the journey—a giant egg-shaped vessel with two fan-shaped attachments for steering. She was named the Regina Helena, or Queen Helene, in honor of the present beautiful Queen of Italy. She was fitted with every

(Continued on Next Page.)

In This Ingenious Plan of the Enthusiast, There'll Be no Dogs, no Cats, no Birds to Scatter Noxious Microbes, and There'll Be no Servant Problem.

No Aunts Nor Grandmas to Corrupt Baby, and the Whole Scheme Will Be an Anti-Germ Socialistic "Home Community"

An imaginative Birds Eye View of Mr. Sinclair's Proposed Socialistic Child Community With the Wonderful Nursery Colony in Active Operation in the Foreground.

FROM RINCLAIR, the young genius who wrote "The Jungle" that exposure of the iniquity meat industry, one of the now foremost men of letters and sociologists in this country, who has been himself with tremendous youthful energy to the task of saving the home and the child, what, he points out, is the child problem, which is to find a colony where children will be taken care of by the friends of the parents instead of by the state; where the child will be the cure for the parents who will attend more to the prevention than the cure of disease, where they will be walled up in the colonies, where the child is the cure for the parents, who will fall into no carriages or vulgar manners of speech; where the needy children will be separated from the ugly and the poor, where the child will be scientifically constructed and ventilated as an up-to-date hospital; a children's paradise from which are banished the influences and the "repertory influence" of grandmothers and aunts.

When we go on stirring about life, because, when we stir, we stir in life. In stirring he was in the church, stirring the death of the poor, frail, or enervated man. He stirred the life of the weak and his own in a stirring contest in the war, stirring the life of the nation in the edible mixture of colored confetti and milk.

"We have tested three different methods of stirring life," he said. "The first was boarded in one room and in the most unsatisfactory way, in the city, for a thousand dollars a year. The second was in a three-room cottage in the country, doing our own work and having our food from the city, for three hundred dollars a year. Besides being healthier and happier than in the city, it was more economical, for it cost only the idea of the home colors for persons situated like ourselves in respect to life."

How Mr. Sinclair Thought It Out.

"My wife, the boy and myself, being upon a sixty-acre farm that represented an average of the material world of administration, paying a man and his wife $340 a year, and the farm work and service being done and cartage, and boarding five persons instead of three, paid for less than

The plan provides that on a tract of 400 acres, there will be 100 cottages. On the right side of New York, cottages shall be erected for families, and a large dormitory or hall for the single men. There will be a large community kitchen, and the meals can be served in a general dining hall, or at small tables in the cottages. There will be a large hall for the dancing. There will be no kitchen and no dining rooms in the cottages. The community hall will be within the colony will be its community nursery school. When the nursery begins doing well, the school will be enlarged. It will be one of the show sites of Greater New York. The tract, after the plan is carried out, will be a place of Liberty and Grant's Tomb, tourists will be conducted to the Immigrant Hotel, and the city will be a better place.

The community nursery should be given a large hall, and a well ventilated and kept as clean as an up to date hospital. A physician should have supervision and control of the hospital supply. The building should not be more than two stories high, and the upper windows should be braced to the reach of the children.

A black and white portrait of Upton Sinclair, a man with dark hair, wearing a suit and tie, looking directly at the camera. The portrait is framed by a decorative border.

UPTON SINCLAIR.

The building should be fireproof and there should be an embargo upon matches and open fires.

The building should be supplied with the fire-escape and an auto fire engine.

The principle of segregation should be applied in the cases of children with contagious diseases.

No part of the building not asked for by the children when definite consideration should be given to the building should be placed there for the young infants who require much sleep.

The building should be clean and about 1000 children should be housed. The building should be in a remote part of the city.

Children Be Reared Automatically.

The community nursery should have a governing body of women who should have a close supervision of the work, and the staff should be composed of the following:

1. A body of washing and dressing, of feeding, and playing with the children.

2. A body of trained nurses.

3. Women who have graduated from the hospital training course.

4. A body of women who are capable of managing and amusing the children should be four or excellent class.

[illegible]

children. It is assumed, though, that parents who join the community believe in the scientific upbringing of their children and will try to protect the children from the corrupting influences of grandmother and aunt.

"As the children grow older they would, of course, have the advantage of all the advantages of the colony so far as the 'Colour' The buildings for social purposes, with the large piazzas for Summer and Winter, the theatres, the museums, the lectures, concerts, theatricals and dancing; the reading room and circulation library would be available to them."

"I should like to see the children work within the limit of their strength, for as every member of this colony will work, exercise and for the development of the body, and the mind with the harvest of the soil, with the raising of the stock of fruit and vegetable, so the children would have to work and each other by pulling hordes and weeding the garden."

"I appreciate the social difficulties in the carrying out of such a project, and I am not implying that day labourers should share it."

[illegible][illegible]

Sad Tragedy of

(Continued from Front Page.)

lucky that a bride who was willing to take an aerial voyage could expect. The little bandstand was constructed for the bride and groom, and the ceremony was under a white curtain, and supplied with many nice touches of the toilet. The stralpy was provided with two weeks of little gifts, including chicken, pigeons, hams, sausages and other delicacies, and the bride and groom were allowed them to do light cooking.

The stralpy was moored in an open space at the pier, and the wedding ceremony was celebrated in the most brilliant fashion. Before a great gathering of the people, the bride and groom were married. When the ceremony was over the proud bridegroom, with his bride, marched down the aisle to the great west door, while the organ played the glorious wedding march.

There was a short alfresco breakfast in the place where the stralpy was moored, and the bride and groom were surrounded by their friends of the bride departed her and were over her.

At 2 o'clock the departure for the stralpy took place. Count Nazzari carried with him his bride, and the stralpy was moored at Lucelli, a fortress, experienced and cu-

A Most Unusual

[illegible]

The little ones, although she should allow them to play with the little sister, should be kept from playing with the child as much as she liked. If any mother believed that her child would be spoiled by the little sister, for which she is best fitted, is that of caring for children, she would be sure to take care of her own but another person's children.

Proper Way to Wear

Her life and smartness of a new pair of gloves are destroyed by the time they are worn for the first time. There is a right way and a wrong way to wear gloves. The first rule is, of course, which many women seem to forget.

The first points to consider when purchasing gloves are fit and price. It is poor economy, to buy cheap gloves, which require a great deal of effort, thus securing a good cut as well as quality; and don't run the risk of buying a pair of gloves that are in the habit of wearing, say, a 0's that every glove stamped with that size is going to be too small for her. It is better to buy a pair of gloves that are a size too large, and carefully cut and right as to size it will adjust itself readily to your hand, every time you wear them. It is better to have a position without pinching and discomfort, and the whole fitting smoothly and smartly.

of privileges of this community, but I do not think that we should neglect those whom we select to care for and teach our children; and also, if possible, those who are in need of more severe food. If I am not willing to abuse a privilege, I will not abuse a duty. In reading paper, I do not see why I am willing to eat what no one else is willing to eat who has cooked."

Gloves and Care for Gloves.

Watch an experienced saleswoman try to put on a pair of gloves. She will turn the wrist on the four fingers before passing the thumb, working all the time slowly and carefully. The thumb is not pulled closely fitted to the hand does the "fasten a button." When the glove is to be removed, the thumb is pulled away from the glove, the glove is turned backward as far as possible, and the thumb is pulled away from the hand easily with a slight pull at the finger tips, the care must be observed in pulling the thumb away from the glove, harsh treatment of this nature tends to pull the fingers out of shape.

It is not surprising that it is so painful to people and the fitting of gloves a tedious and difficult process, fraught with considerable trouble. The thumb is pulled away from the glove, the fingers being inserted into the glove will facilitate the unfastening.

Sad Tragedy of a Most Unusual Honeymoon.

[illegible]

As the balloon rose from the earth it was filled with a large number of guests of Italian wedding guests, cheering, laughing and weeping. They declared it was the most beautiful thing they had ever seen. They stood there fascinated, with feet glued to the ground and faces upturned. The balloon, which had been inflated by the Italian air and sped away to the south, did not, until it was only a speck in the distance, turn back to look at the crowd of people who stood in the fields and on the slopes of the hills. The guests said it was just like going to heaven for a honeymoon. It was a happiness for two hours. If the ship had been a girl she would have been married a little as she peeped over at the crowd of people who stood in the fields and on the slopes of the hills. The guests said it was just like going to heaven for a honeymoon. It was a happiness for two hours. If the ship had been a girl she would have been married a little as she peeped over at the crowd of people who stood in the fields and on the slopes of the hills.

Just blowing him near land Count Nassard made a desperate effort. He dove in and held the valve to his chest, but the water was so strong that he was forced to let it go. He floated up and, still acting together with a sudden squall, upset the equilibrium of the boat. The boat rolled over, and Count Nassard was turned upside down. The bridge fell into the stormy sea, and the boat rolled over by the ropes. Within a few moments this fell into the water. The husband plunged in, but his companion remained on the wreckage of the balloon, believing wisely that the boat would not sink. He was able to crawl from that position. Torpedo boats and fishing boats came out from Ancona to the rescue. They found the floating wreckage with Signor Calvi on it. He thought that both the others were dead. Count Nassard, however, was still alive. A very powerful man, he was found still clinging to the wreckage, feeling the angry waves in the hope of being rescued. He was on board a torpedo boat in a state of delirium. A watch was kept on him, but nothing could be seen of the young man. He drowned and never was heard of again.

which she is best fitted, is that of caring for children, and being helped by her husband to do her share of the housework. She and her husband are to help to take care not only of her own but other persons' children.

Proper Way to Wear

THIS line and waistness of a new pair of gloves are determined by the manner in which you wear them from the first time. There is a right way and a wrong way to put them on and take them off, the manner of which makes the difference between a good and a bad glove.

The first points to consider when purchasing gloves are—first, the quality of the economy, to buy cheap gloves. Pay the best price you can afford, thus securing a pair of gloves that will last you a long way with the idea that because you are in the habit of wearing, say, a G% that you will wear them until you are able to fit you perfectly. If the glove is altered and cut and right as to size it will wear better than a new pair. The old adage is true, each finger occupying its proper position Without pinching and discomfort, and the whole fitting smoothly and smartly.

and Care for Gloves.

Watch as experienced saleswoman tries a pair on a customer. She pushes the glove on her hand, working all the time slowly and methodically, and not pull the glove in any one place. She pulls the glove over the thumb button. When the glove is to be removed she pulls the thumb button in the wrist and then the rest of the glove backward as far as the second joint of the fingers. It will leave the hand easily with a slight pull at the wrist. The reason for backward as far as the second joint of the fingers is to not to employ force, which is bad for the glove, hence treatment of this nature tends to prolong the life of the glove.

Women whose hands are inclined to perspire find the fitting of gloves a tedious and a cloudy job. The reason for this is that they trouble. A little French trick applied over the fingers before inserting into the glove will facilitate the operation.

Proper Way to Wear and Care for Gloves.

THE life and amatiens of a few pair of gloves and a few pairs of shoes. The first time, there is a right way and a wrong way to put them on and take them off, and of which many women seem to be aware.

The first point to consider when purchasing gloves is fit and price. If the price is too high, it is better to buy a pair of best price you can afford, thus securing a good cut as well as quality; and don't run away with the habit of buying gloves on the basis of wearing, say, a 6% discount. Every glove stamped with that size is going to fit you perfectly. If the glove is going to fit you, why buy it? You can adjust it freely to your hand, even if you wear a thin finger occupying its proper position. Without pleaching and discomfort, and the whole fitting and smarting.

As such an experienced saleswoman trying to get a pair of gloves on her hands, she says, "I put on the four fingers before putting on the thumb, working all the time slowly and methodically, and not until the glove is on the thumb do I take the fabric off the thumb. When the glove is to be removed the position becomes in the wrist and the thumb is pulled forward and upward as the second joint of the fingers. It will leave the hand easily with a slight pull at the finger tips, but care must be observed to pull the glove off the fingers with a gentle, harsh treatment of this nature tends to pull the fingers out of shape."

Women whose hands are inclined to perspire should use gloves with a lining of different porous, fraught with considerable trouble. A little French ebik sprinkled over the fingers before inserting into the glove will facilitate the operation.

TO LIVE HER LIFE AMONG THE LEPERS TO BE WITH THE MAN SHE LOVES.

The extraordinary renunciation of the Niece of the famous ex-Secretary of the Navy which has not just its parallel anywhere in real romance.

"It is almost like falling in love with Death," says Society.

When Nellie White, heiress to millions, society favorite at Washington, New York, Newport and Paris, is married to Dr. Walter R. Brinkerhoff in Honolulu this month, the world will know what a woman can sacrifice for love.

Dr. Brinkerhoff went to the Hawaiian Islands last Spring on the most difficult, Godhouse mission that the United States Government ever sent a man to take charge of the lower end of the most island. It was here that Father Damien sacrificed his life after nineteen years in ministering to the lepers.

Yet young Dr. Brinkerhoff, of Harvard, willingly, eagerly accepted the government's call for a man who would dare to enter this plague spot and try to find a remedy for this unrequited malady, the dread of the whole human race.

When he reached Honolulu, before entering upon his leprosy mission, he was invited to the home of Mr. James H. Castle, one of the wealthiest sugar planters on the island. Kamaeha, the place is called. It is a lovely house, built upon the coral rocks overlooking the tropical sea. Here Mr. and Mrs. Castle hold a sort of island court, entertaining in Oriental magnificence, distinguished travelers from all parts of the world.

Last Spring Mrs. Castle's sister, Nellie Mandara White, of Winchester, Mass., was visiting her. Miss White met Dr. Brinkerhoff as one of her sister's guests. The nature of his mission at first awed her. It seemed like courting a thousand deaths.

Yet this young scientist, talked of the proposed work in the most enthusiastic way. He showed his plans for building a model leprosy hospital. He spoke of the laboratories he was going to equip for the study of the germs of the awful disease, and of the treatment he proposed to try on the poor, hopeless, dying lepers. She hung on his words like a magnet.

From Ball Room to the Camp of the Lepers.

Nellie White had mingled much with the world. As a niece of ex-Secretary of the Navy John D. Long, she had associated with the diplomatic set at Washington during the latter part of McKinley's administration and the early part of Roosevelt's. She had passed several seasons at Newport and had been a prominent figure in the American colony at Paris. But in all her travels she had never met a man like Dr. Brinkerhoff, who thought so little of himself, and was so absorbed in doing something for humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

In her home she had been known as the "Angel of Winchester." As the daughter of the late N. D. White, the millionaire cotton manufacturer, she was the richest girl in the town. But no one ever looked upon her with envious eyes, as is so often the case. Nellie White went to school with the other boys and girls of the town, even though her father owned three big mills and a whole village of tenement houses at Winchester Springs. After she left the village school she went to a fashionable finishing school in New York.

When she returned she was the same simple, unspoiled girl as before. She looked up her old friends and those that were sick and needy and helped them out of her life. To think that she was going to risk her life and

own purse so quietly, indeed, that few knew of her beneficence. Her father died twelve years ago and she had the income of millions. But still she kept on with her charitable work in the same quiet way. People who had grown old in her father's mills she presided and took care of. When her brother, Joseph Nelson White, built his big stone house upon the hill, called "Marchmont," she made that her home. There are few finer houses in America than this. It is called "The Castle" by the townspeople of Winchester.

With society's doors open to her in Boston, New York, Washington and Paris, Nellie White preferred humanity. He was so different from the selfish, blasé men of the world that frequent courts and social centers. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

The Dining Hall at "Kiameshu," where the Courtship Progressed.

The Castle Mansion in Honolulu where the Lovers First Met.

MARRIAGE WITHOUT BENEFIT OF CUPID

FORNALLY most very youthful persons of either sex will consider it terrible heresy to assert that there have been, and are now all about us, countless married people, at whose hearts Cupid aimed some of his shafts. There are marriages based on mutual esteem and desire for close companionship that many of us, especially after the early, hot-blooded, romantic years have flown by.

Of course, each party to such a marriage must be thoroughly sensible, or they never even think of entering into such a contract, and it is not much more likely that a sensible, practical couple will make more of married life than a love-sick, moonstruck pair? Surely that is a common sense view; yet we are so wedded to old-fashioned superstitions that many of us cannot see that a marriage could possibly be successful if Cupid had not played his part.

The couple who have married like Mr. and Mrs. Castle, and almost no common sense, run the risk of losing love as time passes, but for pair who marry without love, but a liberal amount of common sense, fall love in the long run, while retaining their common sense all the time.

It is all a question of application, of keeping a check on the tongue, of wearing the safe, and of striving to please. That being so, and as the wife has the making of a marriage, it must surely stand to reason that in the case of a love-sick man the wife has a lot to do to save her marriage.

But she not the wife, in a true love match, much more to do? Besides all the above, she is expected to be ever in a loving and sentimental mood, a kind of mood that she simply cannot keep up indefinitely.

A "lovesick match" would never be a cashless one, and, as a matter of fact, it would be taken for granted that, in the case of a loveless marriage, comfort, if not luxury, is secured, and undoubtedly that tends to make the marriage a success.

Too often, when a couple marry merely for love, the latter is about their only reason for being together. In such a case, when the marriage is based on love, and happiness and contentment are present, peace and love cannot be far off.

Content companionship is almost bound to exist in love; love is not an instantaneous passion, no matter what be said to the contrary. A sensible man and woman, if together, will certainly come to love each other; proximity will bring love to the rescue.

And what about children? Suppose a couple marry without any love, and even then contentment companionship does not prove anything warmer than friendly liking. If a little child appears on the scene, is that not likely to bring love to the fore?

It is an undeniable fact that among nations where marriage is regarded entirely from the practical and unromantic standpoint, the percentage of happy unions is as great, if not greater, than among those where a mutual love is considered the only basis of matrimony.

life and fortune with a man who seemed doomed to a horrible and untimely death, seemed unaccountably terrible.

"Yet it is in that I should think Nellie White would do it for love and duty called her," said one of her old friends, with tears in her eyes. "No sacrifice would be too great for her."

Nellie White's engagement to Dr. Brinkerhoff is not the result of a fitful passion and her own words.

She has passed the successful period of the early twenties—and is a well-to-do woman of thirty. But she has retained the beauty of face and form of early womanhood. She is tall and graceful—a blonde, with hazel blue eyes that always have a steady light in them.

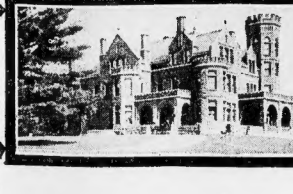

She was considered one of the most attractive young women in Washington, and as such was called upon to entertain the guests at the launching of the torpedo boat Blaker at its launching on November 22, 1902.

That is the young woman who puts aside social ambition and joins hands with a poor young doctor, the latter and his family, in this case, to help the poor.

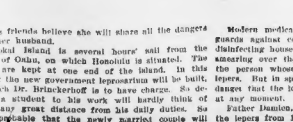

These heroic young people have not yet announced just how they will go about their task. Some young men might permit their husbands to take all the risk of such an enterprise while they remained at a safe distance from the spot of contagion. But Nellie

Dr. Walter R. Brinkerhoff.

Miss Nellie Mandara White.

Miss White's Palatial Home in Massachusetts.

White's friends believe she will share all the dangers with her husband. A devoted wife in several hours' sail from the island of Oahu, on which Honolulu is situated. The lepers are kept at one end of the island. In this respect the new government leprosy hospital will be built, of which Dr. Brinkerhoff is to have charge. He will be a student to his work with kindly heart of living any great distance from his daily duties. The lepers from 1873 to 1880, till he succumbed to the disease, gave this description of it:

Modern medical science has provided some safe means against contracting the disease—methods of disinfecting houses and a foot-washing treatment for the entering over the hands, face and entire body of the person whose duty calls him to go near the lepers. But in spite of this there is the ever-present danger that the leprosy disease may be contracted at our moment.

Further, however, the Catholic priest who lived with the lepers from 1873 to 1880, till he succumbed to the disease, gave this description of it:

On the cheeks, and the parts affected lose their feeling. After a time this discoloration covers the whole body. Then there begins to open, chiefly at the extremities. The flesh is eaten away and gives out a foul odor. Even the breath of the leper becomes so foul that the air around is poisoned with it. These are the hopeless conditions that Dr. Brinkerhoff and his wife are going to face on the island of Oahu. The young physician will go among the lepers, taking culture from the most horrible wounds, making incisions into their diseased bodies that hope the leprosy to the human form—the hope of finding some means of prevention or cure of the awful disease.

Dr. Brinkerhoff's past record is the best evidence of the earnestness with which he enters upon his new field. He is a native of Boston, graduated from one of the city's high schools, and went to Harvard College, finishing his course there in 1897. He then attended the Harvard Medical School, getting his diploma from there in 1901.

Why Servants Wont Put Up With The Habits and Doings of the "400"

An Intimate Personal Peep at the Fashionable High Livers at Newport From "Below Stairs," and an Amusing and Novel View of Society as it Seems to Its Servants.

With the Most Recent Photographs of the "400" on Bellevue Avenue.

A RECENT dispatch from the famous social authority "Cholly Kachukooker" stated that the millionaire cottagers at Newport were in despair at the lack of butlers and other servants.

So great is the difficulty of obtaining well-recommended and highly trained servants that many of the social leaders have been forced to engage dubious characters. As a result they have had many unpleasant disturbances in their palaces, and on several occasions Chief Police Crowley has been called in to remove the offending servant.

A fastidious English butler has become an almost unobtainable luxury and the Newporters are falling back on negro servants.

Why is it that the richest people in the world cannot secure the kind of servants they want? An explanation of this phenomenon is given here by one of the butlers who did not wish to stay at Newport. The revelation he makes will surely amuse the public.

BY JAMES MORRIS.

Butler for Ten Years to One of the Richest and Most Famous Railroad Families of America.

It is a fact that the best butlers, men of health, temperance and good habits, who are ornaments to their calling, are of their own accord leaving the summer palaces of Newport. One by one they are going away, seeking families of more generally, repose and endurable elsewhere, while only men of inferior professional accomplishments remain at the summer metropolis.

The general public, who are not familiar with what passes in the highest social circles, will be surprised to learn that the chief causes for this exodus of the leading members of our ceiling are poverty and ill-treatment. To be explicit, the butlers of the richest families in the world are, when all the circumstances are considered, miserably paid, and they are treated with a lack of humanity that is hardly paralleled in any civilized community.

The great houses of the Newport millionaires are only half occupied by the small families of the owners, but the servants are lodged in any dark, ill-smelling attic corner where they take the least room and have the least air. Misrattant themselves, the cottagers compel their chiefs

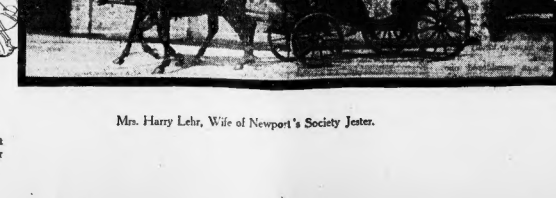

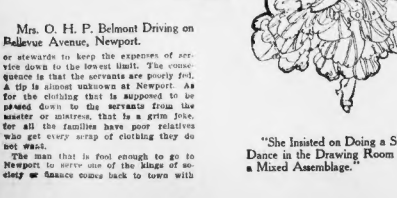

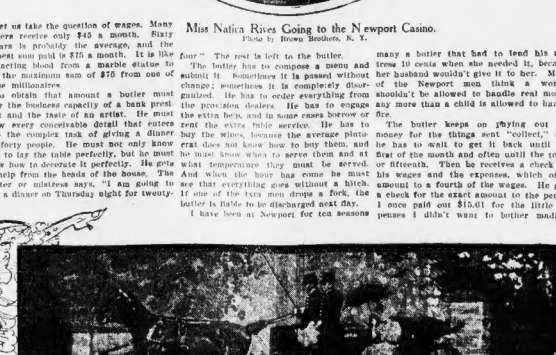

"Then a Butler Hiss to Meet the Little Expenses of the House."

"The Best Butlers Men Who Are an Ornament to Their Calling. Are Leaving the Summer Palaces of Newport."

Miss Vera Gilbert, at Ochre Point, Newport.

Miss Grosvenor Going for an Afternoon Drive.

about. The check I received was for exactly $15.01. I have never known them to lump it off at $16 or $17 to pay a man for his trouble, or give him a little interest on his money.

For $60 a month a butler has to give very hard work, to endure untold ignominy and physical suffering and at the end he has probably not a dollar in his pocket.

Most butlers have families, and they can't always get places for them where they work. Their wives and children have to take rooms in the village and board, and that costs $15 a week or more, for one person. That makes $45 or more because there's more than four weeks in a month. Then two-thirds of a man's wages are most for his wife's keep and board, without counting any outside expenses.

Newly-arrived butlers become dissatisfied with their positions before they have been in Newport an hour. One reason for this is because they arrive at half past one or two in the morning and there's no one there to meet them. They have to wait about the station or dock until morning, and by the time they get their luggage up to the house it's after the breakfast time for the servants, and very likely they will have to work all day with nothing to eat.

That's more likely to happen than not in Newport. Having heard much of the luxury of Newport, the new man will have expectations of living high. A great shock awaits him. He will live badly. He will get poor food of the cheapest quality, and not enough of it. I have lived in places where the servants were allowed one egg and a cup of coffee, and very bad coffee at that, for breakfast, and had to work on this from 6 o'clock until 12, when the family were through their luncheon. Inferior food was specially purchased for the servants. They would have something cheap—corn beef hash or corn beef and cabbage for dinner—and a little of it. At night when the family dinner was over we would get as little as possible, perhaps some cold meats that were left over, and some stale bread and coffee.

The butler in a Newport palace is often lodged worse than the occupant of a New York tenement. If the masters had any self-respect they would not care to live in the same house with men who are kept under such unhealthy conditions.

In a magnificent twenty-room villa occupied by a family of four persons, who are known as well as any of the Newport set, 4 had to sleep with two other men in a room twelve feet square, with a ceiling so low that lying on the bed I could touch it anywhere with my hand. There was one narrow window, one foot by four, in the room for light and ventilation. Three men had to sleep in this room all summer, although there were five or six rooms unoccupied in the house. Is a butler not entitled to a little privacy?

The hours are non-killing. In New York a man is supposed to be on duty twelve hours a day, and during that time he has an hour or two when, although he is still at the door, he can sit down and rest. In Newport he is continually on the go. No matter what time the master and mistress get home from a ball or dinner, he must wait to let them in. There is no good reason why they shouldn't carry a latchkey, especially in houses where there's a watchman employed. They compel the butler to sit up just for show. He may not get to bed until four, but he has to be up at six to begin work, and that may happen after day after day two weeks or more. The man must wait for the old people at night and get up for the young ones in the morning. More servants have been broken down by the dissipation of Newport life than masters, and that is saying a good deal. It is a common thing for a butler to come back from one or two seasons at Newport broken in health.

An infamous trick of the Newport cottagers is to keep a butler standing in the dining room for an hour and a half or two hours after dinner is finished, while the family and the guests sit at the table and talk. It has taken an hour or an hour and a half to serve the dinner, and the butler has been working all day besides. To have to stand there for another hour and a half or afterwards to keep the expenses of service down to the lowest limit. The consequence is that the servants are poorly paid. A tip is almost unknown at Newport, as for the clothing that is supposed to be passed down to the servants from the master or mistress, that is a grim joke, for all the families have poor relatives who get every scrap of clothing they do not want.

(Continued on Page 12.)

"I Had to Sleep With Two Other Men in a Room Twelve Feet Square."

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont Driving on Bellevue Avenue, Newport.

The man that is fool enough to go to Newport to serve one of the huge society or finance couples back to town with

"She Insisted on Doing a Skirt Dance in the Drawing Room for a Mixed Assemblage."

Mrs. Harry Lehr, Wife of Newport's Society Jester.

Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, Mother of the World's Richest Boy, at Newport (Mrs. Brown in the Centre.)

"I Had a Mistress Who Drank a Pint of Champagne Every Morning for Breakfast."

YET?

"He told her that a man did not need to look to his wife for romance."

If You Were a Pretty Young Art Student Like Miss Marthe Wisner
And a Young Man Kept Courting You and Telling You How He Adored You
And After He Had Pursued You for a Long Time You Began to Feel That You Loved Him
And at Last You Agreed to Be His Own Darling Little Wife
And Then Just as Soon as You Were Married You Found
He Would Not Kiss You Nor Pet You, but Said He Only Loved Your Soulfull Intellect

WOULDN'T IT MAKE YOU MAD?

"All in vain she adored her beauty for this man without an emotion except for art."

of tenderness lead her into disbeliever of his stern instructions. When she would lean over the back of his chair and kiss him warmly on the cheek, he would raise his hands and say: "You are forgetting! This is a marriage of our soulfull intellect only. Such demonstrations are unseemly. Further, they destroy that calm so essential to the conception of great art works."

How she longed for the joys of other married women who knew and talked with those who yearned for childish hands hanging over their skirts or nestling lovingly in her arm.

Trusting for the love that was born by right, longing for heavy wifehood and motherhood, and being denied even the least career, she would throw herself down on the rug by his desk and weep bitterly, while he regarded her over his shoulder with dislike that was growing daily more like contemptuous dislike.

He would never consent to the domestic life referred to in the fact of housekeeping. He insisted on having their rooms in hotels and boarding houses, and as often as he would, he would make the evening walk in order to hear her company at home.

"I must preserve my health for my work," he would say. "There cannot be beauty without regular exercise. You have your trained nurse—I deny you nothing within reason."

Then she remembered how he had told her that a man did not need to look to his wife for romance.

In spite of his brilliancy—the most astounding in the world, as he told her—his negotiation of the details of their soulfull marriage did not seem to advance him in his profession. From editor of a small magazine he became editor of a trade journal—no longer understood to be his present main occupation.

At last the wife who was no wife rebelled. She was now, after five long years, she is free from the other woman's hand, and she is out on an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

"At last alone together after the wedding, when she offered him a kiss he diverted his lips knees trembled."

IN THE MATTER OF Marthe Wisner-Hunter

George Leonard Hunter, Before Justice Blumhardt in the Supreme Court of New York.
HAY the plaintiff at the time of the marriage was eighteen years of age and had been educated in France, was passionately devoted to music and knew little of the nature and duties of the marriage relation. . . .
That the defendant was fifteen years older than the plaintiff and engaged to certain art work. That, knowing fully the trustful confidence the plaintiff reposed in him, he professed great love and affection for the plaintiff, . . . persuaded the plaintiff to marry him.
That immediately upon their marriage the defendant assumed a distance from the plaintiff, and informed the plaintiff that he had no intention that this should be an ordinary marriage . . . that he did not wish for children, . . . that he wished her to become great with him in the artistic world, that he wished to form a partnership for ambition and that their union should be one of good friendship.

That the plaintiff was for a long time subservient, . . . living with the defendant without fully realizing the situation in which she was placed.
That the defendant before said marriage fraudulently concealed from her his intention that the union should not be the usual and ordinary union of husband and wife, . . . and that had she known or been informed of the nature of such intention, or incapacity, she would never have consented to the marriage.
That more than five years have now elapsed since the plaintiff discovered the fraud and deception practiced upon her by the defendant. . . .
Whereas, the plaintiff demands judgment that the said marriage be dissolved and declared null and void by the judgment of this court, according to the statute in such case made and provided. . . .

BEAUTIFUL Marthe Wisner-Hunter, after living five years as a wife "for art's sake only," is now free to marry some man who is able and willing to return manifestations of true wife affection.

From the foregoing paragraphs from the complaint in her suit in the Supreme Court of New York State to be freed from "the most brilliant man in the world," as he called himself, who was about at the prospect of her slightest career, it will be seen that there really was no marriage to be annulled.

Such as it was, however, the court promptly declared it void, and banished from posterity without the soulfull intellect of Mr. Hunter will have to find some means to live.

Try legal phraseology is not calculated to illuminate romance. Yet in this case, even the formal complaint of the deluded and defrauded wife bristles with romantic material. This and the testimony of Marthe Wisner-Hunter and her friends of the prettiest matrimonial picture that the courts have ever placed on exhibition.

In the last half century there has been just one celebrated case which seems to offer a parallel. In the main essential, to this one, John Reekin, most famous of art connoisseurs and critics, philologist

"When they started on their honeymoon, and she nestled lovingly against him in the privacy of their Pullman stateroom, he was so scared he was afraid he would ring for the porter."

"When she would lean over the back of his chair and kiss him warmly on the cheek, he would raise his hands and say: 'You are forgetting! This is a marriage of our soulfull intellect only.'" and proved poet, married and took to his home a very beautiful woman. He made it plain to her that he delighted in every artistic woman. Before long she discovered that that was all she represented to him, merely an artistic ideal, embodied in the flesh. He was able to gather about him, as he was proud of her talent. He talked through their house more distinguished than ever, drinking in with immense self-satisfaction complimentary phrases that reached his ears.

"What a talented couple!" "How distinguished looking to be what a fine match!"

"Music and literature would, they ought to be the happiest of mortals."

"It is plain that she adores him, look, how she follows him with her eyes."

"You don't see a little pale and nervous. After all, music may be only the lower half of her, there is more than a subtle suggestion of domesticity about her."

"Now how she watches for a glance from his eyes, only to be disappointed for these glances all but her to play her part in the household union for art's sake."

"Her, even in the early days of their married life, there were those about them who read this through and through, and wondered when she would awaken from her dream of being some day a real wife. She, too, was proud of him in his work. It was easy for her to believe him when he told her, and told her often."

"I am the most brilliant man in the whole world. You are a brilliant woman, and together we shall achieve great things." Then, however, by wife tendency for the husband who pretended to being no husband to her, she would at length be told in those few words which would end her dream.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

of tenderness lead her into disbeliever of his stern instructions. When she would lean over the back of his chair and kiss him warmly on the cheek, he would raise his hands and say: "You are forgetting! This is a marriage of our soulfull intellect only. Such demonstrations are unseemly. Further, they destroy that calm so essential to the conception of great art works."

How she longed for the joys of other married women who knew and talked with those who yearned for childish hands hanging over their skirts or nestling lovingly in her arm.

Trusting for the love that was born by right, longing for heavy wifehood and motherhood, and being denied even the least career, she would throw herself down on the rug by his desk and weep bitterly, while he regarded her over his shoulder with dislike that was growing daily more like contemptuous dislike.

He would never consent to the domestic life referred to in the fact of housekeeping. He insisted on having their rooms in hotels and boarding houses, and as often as he would, he would make the evening walk in order to hear her company at home.

"I must preserve my health for my work," he would say. "There cannot be beauty without regular exercise. You have your trained nurse—I deny you nothing within reason."

Then she remembered how he had told her that a man did not need to look to his wife for romance.

In spite of his brilliancy—the most astounding in the world, as he told her—his negotiation of the details of their soulfull marriage did not seem to advance him in his profession. From editor of a small magazine he became editor of a trade journal—no longer understood to be his present main occupation.

At last the wife who was no wife rebelled. She was now, after five long years, she is free from the other woman's hand, and she is out on an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

of tenderness lead her into disbeliever of his stern instructions. When she would lean over the back of his chair and kiss him warmly on the cheek, he would raise his hands and say: "You are forgetting! This is a marriage of our soulfull intellect only. Such demonstrations are unseemly. Further, they destroy that calm so essential to the conception of great art works."

How she longed for the joys of other married women who knew and talked with those who yearned for childish hands hanging over their skirts or nestling lovingly in her arm.

Trusting for the love that was born by right, longing for heavy wifehood and motherhood, and being denied even the least career, she would throw herself down on the rug by his desk and weep bitterly, while he regarded her over his shoulder with dislike that was growing daily more like contemptuous dislike.

He would never consent to the domestic life referred to in the fact of housekeeping. He insisted on having their rooms in hotels and boarding houses, and as often as he would, he would make the evening walk in order to hear her company at home.

"I must preserve my health for my work," he would say. "There cannot be beauty without regular exercise. You have your trained nurse—I deny you nothing within reason."

Then she remembered how he had told her that a man did not need to look to his wife for romance.

In spite of his brilliancy—the most astounding in the world, as he told her—his negotiation of the details of their soulfull marriage did not seem to advance him in his profession. From editor of a small magazine he became editor of a trade journal—no longer understood to be his present main occupation.

At last the wife who was no wife rebelled. She was now, after five long years, she is free from the other woman's hand, and she is out on an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

of tenderness lead her into disbeliever of his stern instructions. When she would lean over the back of his chair and kiss him warmly on the cheek, he would raise his hands and say: "You are forgetting! This is a marriage of our soulfull intellect only. Such demonstrations are unseemly. Further, they destroy that calm so essential to the conception of great art works."

How she longed for the joys of other married women who knew and talked with those who yearned for childish hands hanging over their skirts or nestling lovingly in her arm.

Trusting for the love that was born by right, longing for heavy wifehood and motherhood, and being denied even the least career, she would throw herself down on the rug by his desk and weep bitterly, while he regarded her over his shoulder with dislike that was growing daily more like contemptuous dislike.

He would never consent to the domestic life referred to in the fact of housekeeping. He insisted on having their rooms in hotels and boarding houses, and as often as he would, he would make the evening walk in order to hear her company at home.

"I must preserve my health for my work," he would say. "There cannot be beauty without regular exercise. You have your trained nurse—I deny you nothing within reason."

Then she remembered how he had told her that a man did not need to look to his wife for romance.

In spite of his brilliancy—the most astounding in the world, as he told her—his negotiation of the details of their soulfull marriage did not seem to advance him in his profession. From editor of a small magazine he became editor of a trade journal—no longer understood to be his present main occupation.

At last the wife who was no wife rebelled. She was now, after five long years, she is free from the other woman's hand, and she is out on an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

"Remember, we are not married in the ordinary, vulgar sense; ours is a partnership for fame."

She even studied and undertook to practice the arts of the coquette. All in vain she adored her beauty for this man with out an emotion except for art.

She herself said that when he worked or meditated in his armchair, and sometimes she would dare to let her impulse show that she was being defrauded of her rights.

She stole to warm him with her beauty.

of tenderness lead her into disbeliever of his stern instructions. When she would lean over the back of his chair and kiss him warmly on the cheek, he would raise his hands and say: "You are forgetting! This is a marriage of our soulfull intellect only. Such demonstrations are unseemly. Further, they destroy that calm so essential to the conception of great art works."

How she longed for the joys of other married women who knew and talked with those who yearned for childish hands hanging over their skirts or nestling lovingly in her arm.

Tr

How Gustave Kathke and Ella Miller Died in Each Other's Arms

3 In Seattle the Distinguished Judge George Meade Emory Was Murdered by the Impassioned Wooer of His Niece Because the Wooing Had Been Prohibited.

[illegible]

Judge Henry lay on the ground for a few moments, stepped over his body and ran up the street and shot himself in a room with the judge's two children, and are Thomas Henry aged 12 years and not, were playing.

They broke open the door and found him standing there with the two men before him and the revolver still aimed with the muzzle in his hand. He was evidently determined to resist arrest and it was feared that he had had some of the men of his brother of Judge Henry. They could not get him but he was holding the child in front of him as a shield.

The policeman who had been summoned first entered the room and asked the boy to open the door and waited.

After Mrs. Emery was carried away unconscious to the nearest house.

The officer called for young Thompson's father, who was awakened and escorted to the scene where he tried to open the door. The policeman was obliged to force the door open and the officer stepped out and landed on him.

As the Thompsons gathered with a great number of the girl and waited for the young man to be released, the officer stood by the door and waited for two days and then died.

June 1 many days for two days and then died.

4 The Pathetic Repetition of Romeo and Juliet in Philadelphia, Where the Young Lovers, Forbidden to Marry by Their P Parents, Locked Themselves in Each Other's Arms, Kissed and Drowned.

Parents, Locked Th

She was musical. She played the piano very well, and sang a little that way when there were any of the dates or concerts. She worked and earned money in other ways, but the amount it seemed to her either to save was so small that there was a temptation the past of going to the the and the Maharaja which was false and that perhaps the instance of this was the incident of the

on their journey to the Maharaja's camp gave the Maharaja the goal was the ...more than child's

...first seized last
...more Romeo and Julia
...overs in a land where ...hardly more than
...Lily finally refused. Then, to stay a friend
...but he was sinking into a lethargy. But
...ing at it was July 26 when Godday came
...a week he was in a business mood. Laugh
...ing he said to his pretty cousin, Miss Carrie
...set who was calling at his home.

And just fourteen years ago I am going to have the flow of my life
I obedient children I am going on the river on a launch, on opposite sides of the globe with me. If there should haptogether constantly pen a student and I should get drowned den-frankly saying, who become my friend, I could shoulders, their part must to do it. Hang traps on the door and get happy have 'em of a child's America. Heavily runs to the age. Each pair of the offspring, and after the attachment of the chord, that his parents have reconciled to each other young lovers who were for the response and he laughed heartily, and wished him a pleasant journey. At the same moment, in her own home, Alice was dressing herself with great care and elegance with her sisters, Clara and Emma. They were all talking about her mother's object, and Emma said

And at this, Lila turned from her mirror, and with tears in her eyes, while her voice trembled, said to her sister:

"I shall never look upon my face again, girls, but you will after I am dead"

Both sisters laughed, finishing in the remark no

Eula, with her sisters, went that evening to a tuber lycium concert where she played one selection on the piano. Shortly afterward her sisters sought for her in vain.

They went home but Ella was not there. Two best day she had not returned. A day had to come home from his launch tip on the river. Then his pretty cousin told his parents what I told them.

...sensitive parents laughed through their sorrow. They believed that Gustav and Lisa would be happy together. Lisa's parents shared that belief. The Milers were at first angry, but finally it was agreed to forgive and to give the children a chance to live together.

On the following day they returned, tired, dead, drowned, and backed by each other's arms as they had been found in the Delaware River. Over the heart of each was clasped a photograph of the other, and each wore the signal flag a present from the other inflated on the inner surface.

At last the day has come which I have long waited for to change from "Mama" to "Mother."

I will be better off will worry no one, will bring no one to their graves, as you say. I will be prepared to go first.

People may talk harshly but on my temple there has come a peace for I can stand it no longer.

My mind is running away with me and I am nearly crazed with grief.

But Emma (Emma is a younger sister, who accompany the dead girl to the singing society, you have often laughed at me and thought that I wouldn't have courage, but who laughs now, laughs best, so they say. I feel it is true.

Mother, when they lay me out, I want the ring and button on me, ~~and~~ but ~~no~~ ~~one~~ take the ring away from me

I gave it to me and we are going to die together in peace
 I felt as if I said good by.

11/10/1911

I've kissed Papa and Sister Helen and said goodbye to them all although they may not know what I mean I was in. I hope you will live hap-

It has been said that when it was thought that Linda and Eric had cured their respective parents would have ~~reminded~~ themselves to the available.

The opposition was strongest on the part of the girl's parents. Mr. Miller said that he had opposed the idea of his daughter marrying because he had thought that she was too young to do so.

"But he was not even allowed to stay at her home. She had to meet him secretly, and they never dared to be seen in this neighborhood in either lost bed parents in the fear of it. It is a very afternoon to be seen in the street of the city. My mother was early in the afternoon and was taken down to a shore near from the bank. He was seen with large roll of bills later in the afternoon by a fri of his. A conductor on a Fifth street car, who k him, says he saw him and the girl together on T day afternoon. They had been engaged to end it lives last afternoon, gone to the respective ho to dress, and then back at 12th & Second Hall, 1 and street above it to first street.

Miss Miller went home with her two sisters, Cl and Emma. She slipped away from them and even a few minutes later talking to my son at corner of Second and Columbia streets. From h they must have gone away together.

"It was an because her parents would not allow her to marry my son. In my last month they went South Bethlehem with another young man and a The four of them had their pictures taken there in a wheat field. A few days ago Mrs. Miller took the picture in Kila's bureau and, after tearing it again, warned the daughter not to meet my son."

Miss ROSE
MAY COWLEY
OF NEW JERSEY.

...sentence Was Never Finished. Out of the Darkness Spat a Slim Fire. It Marked the Path of a Bullet Straight to the Girl's Heart as She Fell Upon the Grass.

CHAPTER XXII

ABOUT three miles east of Bay shore is the village of Islip. One day Tige and I started out for a walk, and before we knew it we walked right up the main street of Islip. Then on through the village we trudged until we came to a road that seemed to run away off toward the middle of Long Island in the direction of Smithtown, so we turned into this road. I was chasing butterflies and I really didn't notice how far we had gone until all of a sudden we saw a great group of buildings surrounded by beautiful lawns with pretty flower beds. Everything showed that the landscape gardener had got in his fine work. Over the main entrance was a sign which read "Manhattan Hospital." It forgot to mention "for the insane."

Tige and I walked in through the entrance and saw a man sitting on a grassy bank whittling. There were other people sitting all about under the

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY of BUSTER BROWN

by R.F. Outcault.

Copyrighted, 1896, by the American Journal Examiner. Under British Rights Reserved.

Americans. Then when the American wives raised a howl he explained that we couldn't take a joke, and that our boasted funny bone was out of joint, and that we were not humorists. Of course humor is dependent on the humor you are in. Some have good dispositions and are bubbling over with good humor. They will laugh at anything and everything. Some people even profess to know what humor is and set themselves up as editors of comic papers. But why go into such horrible details," he said.

"But what's the matter with you?" I said. "Nothing!" he cried. "That's why I'm here—I am the lion on the royal coat of arms!" He turned three flip-flops and stood on his hands. Tige and I went away and left him.

(To be continued next Sunday.)

trees, but we walked over and sat down by this man and asked him what he was doing here.

"I'm one of the boarders," he replied. "Who are all the other folks sitting around?"

I asked. "Oh, those are other boarders," said he. "You know," he said, "we are supposed to be crazy people here; this is a lunatic asylum. But no one is any more crazy here than anywhere else—only a different kind of a bug. No one is crazy except relatively—that is, by comparison. You know what the Kentucky colonel said, that 'no whiskey is bad whiskey,' only some whiskey is better than other whiskey." Well, no one is perfectly sane, but some lunatics are better than other lunatics.

"Most lunatics are egotists," he said. "They were so selfish and spent so much time thinking about themselves that their trolley finally slipped off the wire. It is people with violent tempers and souls full of hate that contract awful cases of rheumatism, get paralysis or go crazy, as the doctors call it. Now, they say I'm crazy, but I haven't harmed any one, and the world is full of such chaps as I am."

"What's your dip?" I asked. "Why," he replied, "I was a theosophist. I walked from India to Point Loma—in my first incarnation."

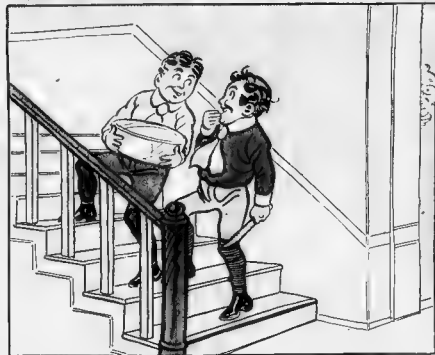

"What are you now?" I asked. "Well," he said, "I'm the only really sane person in this institution. There are people here who think they are humorists—they are the hopeless ones, for, as you know, there is no such a thing as humor, except, of course, by comparison. For instance, a distinguished Britisher came to America recently, and to do a little press work for himself he said that Englishmen were better husbands than

"I AM THE LION ON THE ROYAL COAT OF ARMS."

FOXY GRANDPA

The Boys Arrange a Private Feast, Which Foxy Grandpa Does Not Quite Approve of, as You Will See

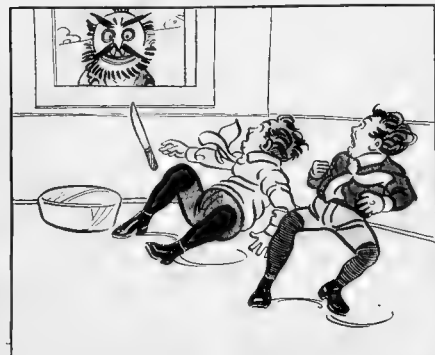

1 BOYS "We will slip upstairs and enjoy this fine cake all by our lonesome"

2 GRANDPA "Those greedy youngsters. I must teach them not to be so selfish"

3 GRANDPA "Now to join that little private dinner party"

4 BOYS "Look! What is that at the window? Let's skip!"

5 GRANDPA "I'll get down quickly to meet the young rascals"

6 GRANDPA "Hello, boys, here you are just in time to enjoy a little cake with me"

EDITORIAL SECTION

BOSTON AMERICAN, SUNDAY, AUGUST 12, 1906.

"TAKE 'EM OR LEAVE 'EM"

DOESNT this picture tell the truth about American politics and American candidates in recent times, fellow-citizens? Isn't it a fact that your candidates, Democrats and Republicans, have been handed to you out of the same box?

Don't you find in the United States Senate the TRUST REPUBLICAN, Aldrich, working with the TRUST DEMOCRAT, Bailey, to help along monopoly?

Don't you find the same trust power controlling the bosses, the mis-called "leaders" of both parties?

How many times have the people in this country gone to the polls to vote knowing that no matter WHICH ticket they might vote THEY WOULD VOTE FOR THE TRUSTS inevitably?

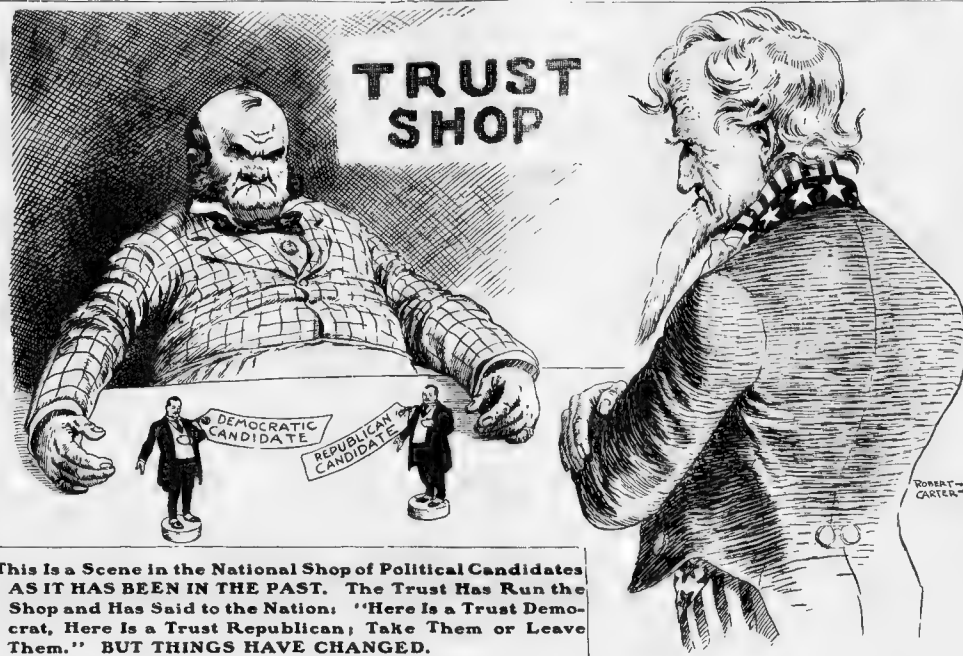

Ask yourself how it has been in your own State, in your own city or village.

There ARE exceptions. Occasionally a man of conviction refuses to be owned and FORCES recognition in the face of organized money's opposition.

But how OFTEN does that happen?

Not often enough to interfere with the truth of the statement that both the political parties have become trust-owned parties, and all his office door and whistle—does CARE. of the political bosses nominating the candidates and herding voters like sheep to the polls have fed out of the same trust manger.

Let Morgan, Rockefeller or Belmont or Ryan stick his head out of

This is a Scene in the National Shop of Political Candidates AS IT HAS BEEN IN THE PAST. The Trust Has Run the Shop and Has Said to the Nation: "Here is a Trust Democrat, Here is a Trust Republican; Take Them or Leave Them." BUT THINGS HAVE CHANGED.

do his work, has fared as in this picture. He has been told by the

Which ever it may be, he knows picture. He pays trusts, "Here is your choice, MY Democrat, or MY Republican. YOU HAVE GOT TO TAKE country during the past few years, and preparing a surprise for the farmer, sitting by his fire in man that keeps the trust shop. Winter, with nearly all the result The mechanic, giving his wife answer will be from a Democrat

Let Morgan, Rockefeller or Belmont or Ryan stick his head out of

No, AND HE DOES NOT when he came around for men to THESE OR NOTHING."

But that situation is changing, of his work in the pockets of the by you, who read this newspaper, There has been a great deal of talk—Railroad Trust or the Harvester and it gives great promise for the

ing, a great deal of discussing and Trust or the Beef Trust, HAS country's future.

a great deal of THINKING in this BEEN THINKING DEFILY THINK, TALK AND VOTE as country during the past few years, and preparing a surprise for the independent men, and no longer as

The farmer, sitting by his fire in man that keeps the trust shop. mere counters in a political game

Winter, with nearly all the result The mechanic, giving his wife played by trusts and bosses.

Multiply This Picture by Ten Thousand

THIS picture presents to you the commonest sight in the world. You do not see it with your eyes very often—fortunately—for this is an indoor scene. The world KNOWS as little as it CARES about it.

The child is dead, and the mother that bore her, worn out with sleepless watching, vain struggling with poverty and hopelessness, wishes that she might follow her child into the world of rest.

Ten thousand children die in this way, and ten thousand more, AND STILL ANOTHER TEN THOUSAND, while "statesmen" are arguing public questions in comfortable committee rooms.

One of many features of our brutal misnamed civilization may have killed this child.

She may have been poisoned by the products of the Milk Trust or the Meat Trust—poverty compels the mother to buy what is cheapest in a land where there is no longer anything cheap.

The child's health may have been weakened by the bad air of the schools. Tax-dodging of dishonest, rich men and the meanness of the stupid politician confine hundreds of thousands of children in school rooms where the air is unfit to breathe.

The tenement house life may have done its share. The disease that proved fatal may have been acquired in the filthy street—this child's only playground. Work in thousands have no chance in our the factory or the mill, poor food, beautiful civilization.

Imagine Ten Thousand Scenes Like This, and You Will Have a Picture of Our "Civilization"

It is not a PLEASANT thing to think of a mother weeping beside tears kept back for so long, every of a doctor, too poor to get good food country of ours. But between a dead child, when a little money, man in this country should have food—too poor even to think of the child and the necessities of life a little humanity, EVEN A LIT: been COMPELLED to see her and the fresh country air that Nature there stood organized human sel-

Many agencies have a hand in TLE RESPECT FOR LAW to know what she has been through, gives to all that can escape from finissh, AND SHE HAD TO killing children, of whom tens of MIGHT HAVE SAVED IT. He should have seen the mother, the hells of great cities. DIP

But, when that mother straight-too poor to buy from the Ice Trust Everything that this child needed the dead child's body and the comfort that the poor child bountiful Nature has supplied in this wonder-then bowed her head to shed the craved, too poor to get the advice quantities unlimited in this wonder-to know what she has been through, gives to all that can escape from finissh, AND SHE HAD TO

He should have seen the mother, the hells of great cities. DIP

He should have seen the mother, the hells of great cities. DIP money to pay the bill of the Gas Trust, the Ice Trust, the Milk Trust, the Food Trust, has also been thinking

In the columns of this newspaper every Sunday and every day at least four millions of American voters have met and exchanged ideas as a smaller number met and thought together in the public square at Athens centuries ago

PARTY SERVILITY has been replaced by INDEPENDENT THOUGHT.

The American has made up his mind to think and vote for himself AS AN INDEPENDENT MAN. The keeper of the trust candidate shop is worried. He fears that he will no longer be able to fool his public.

He cannot think of a trust dummy that the people will accept as a real man just now. The bosses and the newspapers that belong to the trusts are dancing about nervously. Name after name they mention of the trust kind, but they know that the mere sound of the names is a warning to public intelligence.

Friends, and readers, the day of better political thinking and action has come. INDEPENDENCE is the great power in the land and the great moving sentiment to-day.

Encourage it in yourselves and in others. It has been developed by you, who read this newspaper, and it gives great promise for the country's future.

There has been a great deal of talk—Railroad Trust or the Harvester and it gives great promise for the

ing, a great deal of discussing and Trust or the Beef Trust, HAS country's future.

a great deal of THINKING in this BEEN THINKING DEFILY THINK, TALK AND VOTE as country during the past few years, and preparing a surprise for the independent men, and no longer as

The farmer, sitting by his fire in man that keeps the trust shop. mere counters in a political game

Winter, with nearly all the result The mechanic, giving his wife played by trusts and bosses.

There was profit for the heartless exploiters of humanity in her short life, and there is the responsibility for her death.

KILLED BY HUMAN BRUTALITY is the verdict on the death of this child, and of tens of thousands like her.

How can the men of the world tolerate such brutality? How can the most selfish mind deliberately plan to bring it about?

Will not the voters, WHO HAVE THE POWER IF THEY WILL USE IT, look upon this picture, realize that it reflects faithfully thousands upon thousands of actual scenes in life, AND RESOLVE TO PUT AN END TO THAT.

There is no use in appealing to the conscience of the man who poisons a nation's food supply, of the man who steals through a child's milk bottle, or of the brute who builds up his fortune on child labor.

Another weapon is needed for such criminals.

THAT WEAPON IS THE BALLOT. You, the voters, have it. Will you not use it, TOGETHER independently as MEN, and no longer as puppets?

This is the question that we shall ask you over and over until it shall be finally known whether or not the forces responsible for this picture and thousands like it are to rule this nation PERMANENTLY.

THEY stood at the garden gate;
By the lighting of a lid
She might have read her fate
In a little thing he did.

He plucked a beautiful flower,
One it away from its place.
On the side of a blooming bowser,
And held it against his lace.

Drank in its beauty and bloom,
In the midst of his idle talk;
Then cast it down to the gloom
And dust of the garden walk.

Ay, trod it under his foot,
As it lay in the pathway there;
Then spurned it away with his boot,
Because it had ceased to be fair.

Ah, the maiden might have read
The doom of her young life then!
But she looked in his eyes instead,
And thought him the king of men.

She looked in his eyes and blushed;
She hid in his steez arms' fold,
And the tale of the flower crushed
And spurned was once more told.

Old-Fashioned American Grit

Copyright, 1903, by American Journal-Examiner

NE of the best known physicians in the West said something at the British medical association convention the other day that has been taken up as the case in the case he had taken a neat little bomb out of his pocket and thrown it under the speaker's chair. This is what he said: "I don't know if there is anything to call American grip. I haven't seen any of it for ten years. Have you, brother practitioners?" No, he takes that back. I have seen an example of it. It is the thing we call the flu, but I have to go out to the Ladies' Home to find it.

"I can't get a patient under twenty-five to stand five minutes' pain without an anesthetic, to save my life or my skin. I can't get a patient under twenty-five to stand five minutes' pain without an anesthetic, no matter what it costs them in money, time or real life."

"I wish our doctors are treated more fairly. Do you see pauper?"

our patients too much? In my early days of practice a sick man expected to be sick; nowadays men and women think they can die of cancer and not be sick.

"What's happened to the old-fashioned American grit?"

I hope that doctor has taken pains to find out about the travelling back to the place he lives in; the bare report of it would lose him half his patients. I'm afraid I wonder if anything really has happened to the American character.

"American women won't bear children because they're afraid of pain, and if by any accident they do bear children they're afraid of trouble. That's what the doctor said."

American men have been found within the last two weeks, in my personal experience, to be just as much as the women. I have no satisfaction that they never intend to marry because they're afraid of the responsibility.

The American child doesn't have to learn to suffer any more, therefore too much work about that. So in child learns to read without knowing how to spell at all. The American housekeeper who has to wash her own clothes, and who has to take in drying them trying to invent a machine that will do the washing and the drying for her, is a woman who is not supposed to be too hard for us now—adaya, doesn't it?

It is used to be the fashion to sit up and look as if you were a philosopher, and to pretend that you could do anything, but now it is not so. It is not so pretentious that you did not see it at all.

The idea is completely out of date. The idea is in debt, to-day you mustn't sit up nights and work to get out of debt; you must just look look, you suffer calmly in the face and smile, and you mustn't think about the weather.

There isn't anything to pay debts, that isn't important.

It is not so important to have money, what's that to you? The important thing is to keep might be interfered with, and that would affect your complexion. Just repeat a verse of Scripture or a poetry stanza, and you will be calm like, on a picture of a beautiful calm lake, on a sweet green meadow, —and forget it. Don't try to alter it, forget it.

I have known a woman who was an example of light-hearted, sweet temper for years.

She had all kinds of trouble, all kinds of illness, all kinds of trouble, all kinds of trouble. She was a verse or hymn, and kept her mind serene. She did that for at least ten years, but the time came when she was no longer the same seem to work.

All the little airy vells she had been as careful to put between her and the world, and she was began to wear out, and the realities had to be faced in the end, just as if she had been an everyday woman.

I wonder if she was the same if she found it if she had looked the better for her if she had looked the truth in the face years ago, when she was young and full of expedients, instead of waiting until now.

"What is the thing?" I asked. "It has undoubtedly saved many a poor soul from madness. But it wears out—oh—alas! the day it wears off—and then comes the time when the light is lost and the soul conquers pain alone."

"When I was a little girl I used to take a mirror and hold it above my head and walk around, looking into it, and I was amazed at how the private floor."

"Things were so charming in the mirror—ordinary everyday things that I had never seen in the real world, didn't look like a sofa at all in the mirror. It looked like a beautiful delft of the sort we read about in the Arabian Nights, and the position of the things was so different. I heard the music of the mirror into a gorgeous conservatory."

"Oh, it was beautiful," the mirror said. "I have been known to do anything I didn't like. I just tilted the mirror a little and shut it out. But one day I was so busy tilting that mirror that I didn't see the steps and I spent a few rather disagreeable weeks in hospital.

I've never cared much about the magic inferior way of looking at life since then.

I'm glad I went to school to see a teacher who made me stay in long fragrant hours, right in the middle of May, till I learned every one of my letters, backward and forward, and I'm glad I went out to see a teacher through with alphabetical troubles and now, I'm glad of it.

I wonder if the doctor was right or not.

Has something really happened to the old-fashioned American grit that taught us to take bitter medicine and to push and pull and sweat and responsibility and to do hard work and to look the plain truth in the face?

If it is true, what the doctor said is true, and I'm in one of those other kind of alphabets dead, wonder how we will feel when the doctor's medicine begins to work off.

By Winifred Black

Mirandy on Misfit Marriages

Copyright, 1988, by American Journal Examiner

“AY JANE,” said Miranda, “I done been readin’ no ‘bout dat doctor down in New Jersey what dey says seasoned up his ‘speral wid a handful of ground glass. He had one eye on another woman, eber eye on her bank account. ‘Now dat,’ says I, when I heerd ‘bout hit, preachers what’s always prognosticatin’ dat de worl’ is de worst thing in de worl’, dat folks had better be tial togeder an’ spend deir lives livin’ each oder dar to be seasoned an’ live peaceable.”

“How an’ inquires Ma’v Jane, what it still a single gal dat ain’t been up ‘glost de agerity tings of matrimony.”

"Folksne," says I, "you make his too tight that married folks lives here under den bachelors." A husband an' wife dat is got to be put of an old maid, but dey wouldn't elere wadn't be very ground dat de older one walks on can't git rid of each other no older way no way to kili a divorce in case of need.
 "Yassum, I don't know nothin' dat de folks by murder, you're gubne to make a lot put away a damper on married life us to make wid a divorce. The way things is in we root in de country, de folks dat we root in de city, we can't have a stand thing wife kilt" each other entel de talk do, 'em we're wants to, an' dat any day we're in de fambly, for de de pot is de foundation stone of a happy home, an' ef you gits to suspicishin' dat wif, you're a goner.

"Case I ain't a eddicated woman, I don't know nothin' 'bout what dees deah preachers say 'bout de facts of de life, but I know dat de only way dat folks kin bu' de yoke of matrimony when his gits de gallin' is by ber of sudden an' mysterious deaths.

"Yassum, matrimony will be de healthiest a profession dat e'vbody will be in a shrewd wif deir trowseus so as to have deir harts in case of an emergency, 'cause deir deah husbands kin be deir deah wifes in deir harts. De'y is de money to suit my taste, but dey ain't as messy as a murder, an' I'm a lot better be haled into de divorce court

"I was awaitin' up fer him wid de rollin' pin."

"Brer Jenkins -- dat da census taker

"He casses sheep's eye at Hannah Sue Mooney."

The Latest Fad of Women

COUNT DE LA VAUX'S PERSONALLY CONDUCTED BALLOON TRIPS

MRS. JULIAN P. THOMAS HORSEWOMEN STIR INTEREST AMONG THE BERKSHIRE HILLS

Lenox, Aug. 11.—Opinion is divided in Lenox as to whom should be awarded the prize for being the most accomplished horsewoman in the Berkshires.

To some the manner and style of Mrs. Forrester Wicks of New York appear and they hold that she is the leader of the women in handling related horses from the "races" in and out of the saddle. Miss Kate Carr, the new "hot" horsewoman, who has been a resident of Lenox, has a reputation of being a horsewoman, and a resident of Lenox, has a reputation of being a horsewoman, and a resident of Lenox, has a reputation of being a horsewoman.

These young women will have to look to their laurels in the next show in September when Mrs. Helen Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Alexander, and a granddaughter of General Alexander, will be competing with Mrs. Wicks and Mrs. Carr.

Mrs. Wicks and Mrs. Carr, both of New York, are well known horsewomen, and Mrs. Carr is a resident of Lenox, and Mrs. Wicks is a resident of New York.

Mrs. Carr is a resident of New York, and Mrs. Wicks is a resident of New York, and Mrs. Carr is a resident of New York, and Mrs. Wicks is a resident of New York.

MOONLIT DIPS ON THE MAINE COAST

August Parties Find the Luxury of Ease on Wave-Swept Shores.

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 11.—The season is now at its full height. All the boats and cottages are ready to take their guests. The moonlight nights of the past week have brought thousands of visitors to the shore, where many may be seen enjoying a plunge in the ocean before retiring.

The Maine Marine Hotel and the Maine Hotel are the most popular places for the summer. The Maine Hotel is a large hotel, and the Maine Marine Hotel is a smaller hotel, but both are very popular.

The Maine Hotel is a large hotel, and the Maine Marine Hotel is a smaller hotel, but both are very popular.

BALLOONING TO BE A FAD OF SOCIETY WOMEN OF LENOX

Lenox, Aug. 11.—Ballooning is to be the fad of the autumn of the millionaires. The first balloon trip was made on Sunday, Aug. 6, when Mrs. John H. Bishop and her daughter, Mrs. John H. Bishop, went to Paris and returned on Sunday, Aug. 11.

The first balloon trip was made on Sunday, Aug. 6, when Mrs. John H. Bishop and her daughter, Mrs. John H. Bishop, went to Paris and returned on Sunday, Aug. 11.

The first balloon trip was made on Sunday, Aug. 6, when Mrs. John H. Bishop and her daughter, Mrs. John H. Bishop, went to Paris and returned on Sunday, Aug. 11.

Bath

Barth, Me., Aug. 11.—Announcement of great interest was made in society circles this week of the approaching marriage at central Congregational church on August 22 of Miss Mary Brewster, of New York City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Brewster, of Lenox, and son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Brewster, of New York.

The wedding will be a quiet affair, and will be held at the home of the bride's father, Mr. William W. Brewster, of New York.

GLOUCESTER

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Whittier of Lenox, who have been visiting at Whittier's Hotel, have just returned to Lenox. Mr. and Mrs. Whittier were in Lenox for a few days, and they were very much enjoyed by all who knew them.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittier were in Lenox for a few days, and they were very much enjoyed by all who knew them.

Mrs. Isabel Robinson of New York, who is one of the leading entertainers there, is expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mrs. Robinson is a well-known actress, and she is expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

The races at Saratoga have attracted a large number of visitors to Lenox, and the racing season is expected to be a very successful one.

The racing season is expected to be a very successful one, and a large number of visitors are expected to come to Lenox.

Miss Josephine Durand started this week for Murray Bay, on the St. Lawrence river, where she will spend the summer. Miss Durand is a well-known actress, and she is expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Miss Durand is a well-known actress, and she is expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mrs. Alice Robinson and Miss Lillian King of New York, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mrs. Robinson and Miss King are well-known actresses, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Bratton, the British ambassador, and Mr. and Mrs. Bratton, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bratton are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mrs. John H. Thomas, who is one of the leading entertainers there, is expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mrs. Thomas is a well-known actress, and she is expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

The annual tournament of the Stockbridge Club will be held on the 28th of August. The tournament is a very popular event, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

The tournament is a very popular event, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Cape Elizabeth

Miss Lillian King, pianist and composer, of Lenox, with her family, is occupying a cottage at Cape Elizabeth, Me. Miss King is a well-known pianist, and she is expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Miss King is a well-known pianist, and she is expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Belfast

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Peaks Island

A unique affair is booked for the Gem Theatre at Peaks Island tomorrow night. The play to be given is "The House of the Seven Gables," and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

The play is a very popular one, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Squirrel Island

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Peaks Island

A unique affair is booked for the Gem Theatre at Peaks Island tomorrow night. The play to be given is "The House of the Seven Gables," and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

The play is a very popular one, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

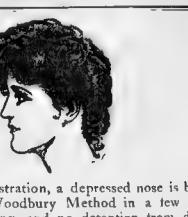

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Squirrel Island

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bishop, who are making a tour of the country, are expected to arrive in Lenox on Sunday, Aug. 13, and to give a series of entertainments during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well-known actors, and they are expected to give a series of entertainments during the week.

AS shown by the above illustration, a depressed nose is built up by the famous Woodbury Method in a few months, with no pain, no cutting, and no detention from daily affairs.

This is no miracle, but a scientific treatment used successfully at this Institute for many years, and not used elsewhere.

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

WE CORRECT

Outstanding Ears, Drooping Eyelids, Ragged Chin, Wrinkled Skin, Yellow Cheeks, Imperfect Nostrils, Enlarged Pores.

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

WE REMOVE

Pimples and Blackheads, Wrinkles, Snarled Pittings, Warts and Moles, Scars, Superfluous Hair, Dandruff.

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

Our equipment for the care of the face, scalp and features is surpassed by none in the world. Every necessary contrivance is installed.

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

Our staff of physicians and surgeons comprises graduates of the foremost medical schools of this country, who have supplemented their training by long post-graduate study in the best medical centers of Europe.

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

The personal attention of one of these specialists is controlled on each case. Long experience and unequalled success place the Woodbury Institute at the head of this profession. For 35 years we have been recognized as the World's leading Dermatologists.

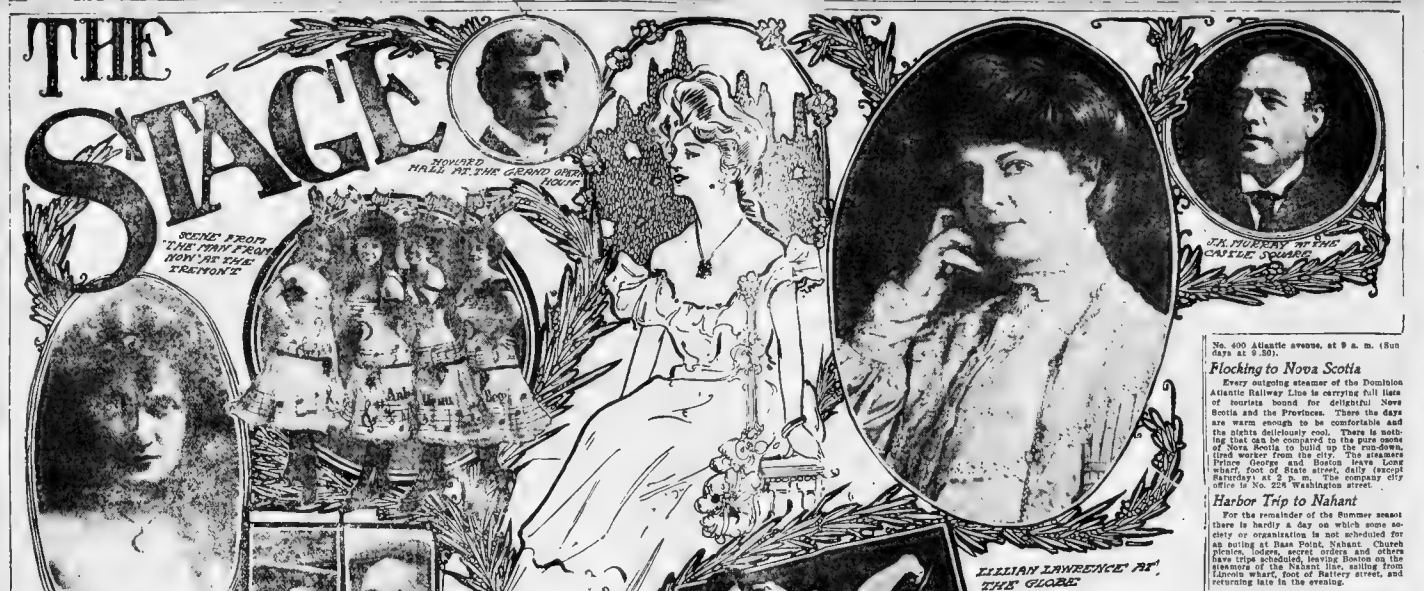

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

Every inquiry, whether by mail or in person, is fully answered and treated with strict confidence.

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

John H. Woodbury Dermatology Institute, Consultation Free, (Days K) 25 Winter Street, Boston.

The Woodbury Dermatology Institute is a well-known institution, and it is expected to attract a large number of visitors.

Many Changes in the Bills of Local Theatres to Be Made.

But two more weeks remain of the summer season in local theatres. Then the curtain will fall on the last of the season. The bills of the theatres are being changed to meet the needs of the season. The following are the changes to be made:

- Palace Theatre: "The Man from Snowy Mountain" and "The Man from the South."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Summer Attractions.

ALMA A. SIMON'S Pictures and "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Out-Door Attractions.

PARADISE PARK, NORTHEAST PARK.

What Is Going On

There is a good variety in the bills of the theatres. The following are the changes to be made:

- Palace Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Greenroom News of Local Interest

THEATRE "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

What to See Out of Doors.

Paradise Park, Northeast Park, and other outdoor attractions.

Palace Theatre

It would be hard to conceive of a better place for the warm weather than the Palace Theatre. The new bill is a most attractive one. The following are the changes to be made:

- Palace Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Wanderland

Pluribus to the noted artist of St. Anne's. The new bill is a most attractive one. The following are the changes to be made:

- Wanderland: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Paragon Park

What gives promise of being the brightest and most attractive of the new bills. The following are the changes to be made:

- Paragon Park: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Trips on the Trolley

Not everyone who has been in a place like this before. The new bill is a most attractive one. The following are the changes to be made:

- Trips on the Trolley: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Norumbega Park

What gives promise of being the brightest and most attractive of the new bills. The following are the changes to be made:

- Norumbega Park: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Prince of Felsen Coming

A notable company has been engaged for the "Prince of Felsen" at the Grand Opera House. The following are the changes to be made:

- Prince of Felsen: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

Castle Square Theatre

The season of opera at the Castle Square Theatre is now in progress. The following are the changes to be made:

- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Grand Opera House: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Trinity Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."
- Castle Square Theatre: "The Man from the South" and "The Man from the North."

The Secret of Strength

Do you sometimes wonder why you are not as strong as you should be? The secret of strength is in the blood. Electro-Vigor, Dry-Cell Body Battery, makes it possible for you to be as strong as you should be.

Electro-Vigor, Dry-Cell Body Battery

Makes Its Own Power. Requires No Charging. No Tying or Acid.

Free Book

Dr. S. J. Hall Co. 127 West 42nd St., New York.

Dr. S. J. Hall Electro-Vigor Co.

127 West 42nd St., New York.

KEEP THIS COUPON AT HOME UNTIL NEXT SUNDAY

Sunday American-Journal-Examiner

FREE COUPON

$100.00 Insurance

REGINA SKIN BLEACH CREAM

THE SKIN WHITENER

Free Exit for Fishing

REGINA SKIN BLEACH CREAM

THE SKIN WHITENER

Free Exit for Fishing

AUGUST
COSMOPOLITAN
TEN CENTS

LITTLE ONE KILLED BY 1ST BOSTON GIRL WHO WAS

KILLED BY TROLLEY CAR

A detailed illustration of a vintage trolley car, shown from a side profile. It has multiple windows and doors, and is depicted on tracks. The style is reminiscent of early 20th-century newspaper illustrations.

Darts in Front of Fender and Is Knocked Down and Is Crushed Before Motorman Has Time to Apply Brakes

Mary Rich, aged six years, was run over and killed almost instantly in front of her home, No. 103 Madison street, East Boston, last yesterday afternoon. She was riding on a bicycle, while her mother, only a few feet away, turned her head just as the car with a full load of passengers approached. The mother rushed out into the street and tried to stop the car.

[illegible]

Honest, Says Mignobinotto

Harlow Hatzibothum of Chicago, who was president of the World's Columbian Exposition last fall, says:

"Not a single member of the committee will be placed in nomination for reelection of either the Mutual or the New York Life and Fire Insurance Co. to be placed in nomination if objected to by any member of the committee. As a result, the committee made and the funds will be judiciously applied."

Eaton Answers His Critics.

At his home near Philadelphia Mr. Eaton declared this afternoon that he had no objection to the committee being made up of him. He said, "If the General Committee, of which I was the secretary, had not been further enlarged, I would have been for my resignation it will be thus at the present time."

Secretary, Senator John Jay, Samuel D. Rhoads, in a letter to the Washington Post, has been quoted as reflecting a sense of the far-reaching impact on the American language of the Americanization movement. He declared that the "most conspicuous" development in the current use of the English language is the "tendency to borrow words from other languages, and to use them as if they were native-born." He charged that the New York and Mutual with one exception, and it is not known how many of the other 100,000 copies of the Post and the Executive Council of the Post have been distributed. A copy of one letter is in the file with the Post and the Executive Council of the Post, but it is a "very poor specimen," says a Post representative. He would explain why no treasurer was appointed.

"The crowning virtue of Peru-na, after it has cured the catarrh, is as a tonic and restorative of appetite, strength and good spirits."—Samuel D. Rhoads.

AN INSURANCE MAN TESTIFIES TO

THE GREAT VIRTUES OF PE-RU-NA

SAMUEL D. RHOADS REGISTERED TRADE MARK

which place heres a very interesting letter concerning Peru-ru.

What Peru-ru Has Done For the Fine Family Peru-ru Can Do For Another Family.

Mr. Samuel D. Rhonda, a prominent insurance man of Lansdowne, Pa., writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I heartily and unreservedly wish to give my endorsement to Peru-ru catarrh cure that is not approached by any other method. From my own experience, and noting what it has done for members of my family, I can say that Peru-ru has cured the catarrh, is as a tonic and invigorant, and has given me new strength and invigorated me in everything I do. I permanently healed my iron and muscles of steel, and assisted the mental activities through which the physical is a wonderful degree." Peru-ru is the family medicine, is absolutely safe and reliable as it contains no narcotics or other drugs liable to abuse.

Keen Peru-ru in the House

Perla's Bestores Strength.
G. W. Woodbury, Rogers, O.,
General Captain and Center of the Stram College Basketball Ball Team, writes:

"There are times in the life of every student when excessive study and too close confinement and attention to the books make the body feel as if it were dead. I have found that when body and mind alike were weary and refused to

Mr. Chas. S. Many, 12 Water street
Oswining, N. Y., writes:

"I had catarrh for ten years and tried a lot of kinds of medicines.
"I would eat a lot of money, but did me no good. Instead of getting better
I got worse. To get relief I bought Perune and thought I was cured. But natural I took about ten bottles and cured of the catarrh."

"I have used the Catarrh Cure house, and when I feel a cold coming on, I take a little bit of it and it does me good."

STABS HIMSELF, CAPS SEA, RESCUED.

CZAR COWERIN PALACE, FEARING VILENT DEATH AT HANDS OF ASSASSINS

WHO WILL BE NEXT?

Bay State Man on New York Steamer Determinedly Attempts Suicide.

SWIMS AND FIGHTS IN WATER, KNIFE IN HAND

New York, Aug. 11.—Passengers on the New York steamer City of Worcester which arrived in New York today from New London, Conn., have been startled by a thrilling episode of suicide in the South Atlantic.

A young man who gave his name as J. Johnson of East Longmeadow, Mass., jumped from the upper deck of the ship at about 10 o'clock today. A small boat was lowered and the man was rescued. He was found with a knife in his hand.

Johnson is a handsome, well-dressed man. There was nothing about him to attract attention. He was found floating in the water near the ship. He was taken aboard and placed in a cabin.

Man Arose Early. At about 10 o'clock, while the Worcester was making her last run with the City of Worcester, Johnson climbed up to the upper deck. One of the stewards, who was on duty, saw him and called to him.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Johnson walked up to the upper deck and stood for a moment. He then turned and walked back to his cabin. He was seen by the steward again.

Attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, Who Narrowly Escaped Death from Shots Fired at Him, Is Preying on Emperor's Mind

Nervous Calamity Is Brought on, and Unhappy Ruler Cannot Tell Whom to Trust; Among Army and Navy Men

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The attack on Grand Duke Nicholas, who narrowly escaped death from shots fired at him, is preying on the Emperor's mind. The Emperor is now in a state of nervous tension.

PROTESTANT BISHOP DENIES VICES MEMORIAL

Declares Scheme of Protest of Educational Workers "Purely A"

IMPLIES ACCEPTANCE OF PROTESTANT GOVERNMENT

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American

Boston, Aug. 11.—The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States has today repudiated a memorial presented to it by the Educational Workers' Union of the city.

The memorial, which was presented to the church by the Educational Workers' Union, was a protest against the government's policy of supporting the church.

The church's response was a statement that it did not accept the memorial and that it did not support the government's policy.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

The church's statement was a clear repudiation of the memorial and a statement of its own position.

MRS. FISH GIVES BRILLIANT FETE IN NEWPORT: 150 GUESTS AT ELABORATE DINNER-DANCE

MRS. J. DEFOREST DONELLEN, MRS. OLIVER H. P. BELMONT, NEWPORT SOCIETY LEADER.

Harry Lehr and Mrs. Fish, Elisha Dyer and Miss Marion Fish are cotillion leaders.

Stretches of velvet green.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank A. Lehr, who was the hostess, and Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont.

TELS PLOT OF CONSPIRACY WITH MEXICO.

Outbreaks Near Border Part of Conspiracy to Involve United States.

OBJECT SAID TO BE SESSION OF STATE

New York, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Mexico City today announced that a plot had been discovered to involve the United States in a war with Mexico.

The plot, which was discovered by the Mexican government, was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

The plot was said to be a conspiracy to overthrow the Mexican government and to establish a new government.

DEMANDS PROBE IN CHARGE OF GRAFT

Reverend candidate to United States Senate, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

The candidate, who was a member of the Republican Commission, today demanded a statement in which he denies the charges preferred against him by John Payne, secretary of the Republican Commission, of which he was a member.

COUNT HEYDEN IN LETTER GIVES LIE DIRECT TO CZAR

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government, today gave a letter to the czar in which he lied.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

The letter, which was a direct lie to the czar, was given by Count Heyden, who was a member of the Russian government.

MAYOR POSTPONES REDBERRIES' OUTING

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The annual outing of the Redberries, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed.

HUMIDITY DRIVES SLEEPLESS TO ROOFS.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

Many a man who said that he would sleep tonight, has been driven to the roof by the heat.

WOMAN SAVES MAN FROM DROWNING

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Help for the rescue of a man who was drowning in the water was given by a woman.

Millions of people all over the world are using ZOZODONT because of its genuine value as a cleanser and preserver of the teeth and antiseptic tonic for the gums and mouth. Our pamphlet "The Care of the Teeth" will interest those who have good teeth and want to keep them so.

Women's Undervests: 15c
SWISS, Jersey or Richelieu ribbed, Lisle or Cotton Undervests, light weight and prettily trimmed. An extra special 25c undervest at 15c.
Henry Siegel Co.—Main Floor, Essex Street Side.

Washington and Essex Sts

HENRY SIEGEL CO.

Mail Orders Filled

$1.50 Corsets: Special 69c
FINE White Batiste Corsets, new high bust with long dip hip, hose supporter attached, boned with rust proof steel, post view a 1.50 corset at 69c.
Second Floor, Hayward Place Side.

Second Annual Pure Food Show Price Attractions and Entertainment Features Are Interesting Thousands

SEEMS as though the grocery business of Boston and vicinity centered here the past week—the second annual pure food show has made the strongest kind of an impression. It's a decided departure in sales promotion, that compensates in pleasure as well as price. Those summering in neighboring states should remember that we pay freight for purchases of $5.00 or over.

Enjoy the Lectures and Demonstrations

See the Comical Marinette Listen to the sweet strains of the band concert.

Flour 8000 sacks Hest best XXXX Hest Flour, makes more than any other flour. Regular price 75c, 4 sacks limit, special, 20¢ a sack 59c	Coffee We offer the best coffee blend, the price in Boston fresh roasted daily, 10 lb. $1.50, 5 lb. 90c, 2 1/2 lb. 21c	Tomatoes 10,000 cans extra fancy solid pack fresh tomatoes at the lowest price named for years on the ground, 4 cans, 2 cans, 1 can, 50c, 25c, 12 1/2c, 6 1/2c, 3 1/4c, 1 3/4c, 7/8c, 3/4c, 1/2c, 1/4c, 1/8c, 1/16c, 1/32c, 1/64c, 1/128c, 1/256c, 1/512c, 1/1024c, 1/2048c, 1/4096c, 1/8192c, 1/16384c, 1/32768c, 1/65536c, 1/131072c, 1/262144c, 1/524288c, 1/1048576c, 1/2097152c, 1/4194304c, 1/8388608c, 1/16777216c, 1/33554432c, 1/67108864c, 1/134217728c, 1/268435456c, 1/536870912c, 1/1073741824c, 1/2147483648c, 1/4294967296c, 1/8589934592c, 1/17179869184c, 1/34359738368c, 1/68719476736c, 1/137438953472c, 1/274877906944c, 1/549755813888c, 1/1099511627776c, 1/2199023255552c, 1/4398046511104c, 1/8796093022208c, 1/17592186044416c, 1/35184372088832c, 1/70368744177664c, 1/140737488355328c, 1/281474976710656c, 1/562949953421312c, 1/1125899906842624c, 1/2251799813685248c, 1/4503599627370496c, 1/9007199254740992c, 1/18014398509481984c, 1/36028797018963968c, 1/72057594037927936c, 1/144115188075855872c, 1/288230376151711744c, 1/576460752303423488c, 1/1152921504606846976c, 1/2305843009213693952c, 1/4611686018427387904c, 1/9223372036854775808c, 1/18446744073709551616c, 1/36893488147419103232c, 1/73786976294838206464c, 1/147573952589676412928c, 1/295147905179352825856c, 1/590295810358705651712c, 1/1180591620717411303424c, 1/2361183241434822606848c, 1/4722366482869645213696c, 1/9444732965739290427392c, 1/18889465931478580854784c, 1/37778931862957161709568c, 1/75557863725914323419136c, 1/151115727451828646838272c, 1/302231454903657293676544c, 1/604462909807314587353088c, 1/1208925819614629174706176c, 1/2417851639229258349412352c, 1/4835703278458516698824704c, 1/9671406556917033397649408c, 1/19342813113834066795298816c, 1/38685626227668133590597632c, 1/77371252455336267181195264c, 1/154742504910672534362390528c, 1/309485009821345068724781056c, 1/618970019642690137449562112c, 1/1237940039285380274899124224c, 1/2475880078570760549798248448c, 1/4951760157141521099596496896c, 1/9903520314283042199192993792c, 1/1980704062856608439838588784c, 1/3961408125713216879677177568c, 1/7922816251426433759354355136c, 1/15845632502852867518708710272c, 1/31691265005705735037417420544c, 1/63382530011411470074834841088c, 1/126765060022822940149669682176c, 1/253530120045645880299339364352c, 1/507060240091291760598678728704c, 1/1014120480182583521197357457408c, 1/2028240960365167042394714914816c, 1/4056481920730334084789429829632c, 1/8112963841460668169578859659264c, 1/16225927682921336339157719318528c, 1/32451855365842672678315438637056c, 1/64903710731685345356630877274112c, 1/129807421463370690713261745482224c, 1/259614842926741381426523490964448c, 1/519229685853482762853046981928896c, 1/103845937170696552570609393965792c, 1/207691874341393105141218787931584c, 1/415383748682786210282437575863168c, 1/830767497365572420564875151726336c, 1/1661534994731144841129750303452672c, 1/3323069989462289682259500606905344c, 1/6646139978924579364519001213810688c, 1/13292279957849158729038002427621376c, 1/26584559915698317458076004855242752c, 1/53169119831396634916152009710485504c, 1/106338239662793269832304019420971008c, 1/212676479325586539664608038841942016c, 1/425352958651173079329216077683884032c, 1/850705917302346158658432155367768064c, 1/1701411834604692317316864310735536128c, 1/3402823669209384634633728621471072256c, 1/6805647338418769269267457242942144512c, 1/136112946768375385385349144858842889224c, 1/27222589353675077077069828971768577844c, 1/5444517870735015415413965794353715568896c, 1/10889035741470030830827931588707431137792c, 1/21778071482940061661655863177414862275536c, 1/43556142965880123323311726354829724551072c, 1/87112285931760246646623452709659449102144c, 1/1742245718635204932932469054193188982288c, 1/34844914372704098658649381083863779655744c, 1/69689828745408197317298762167727559311488c, 1/139379657490816394634595323335455118622976c, 1/278759314981632789269190646670910237245504c, 1/557518629963265578538381293341820474491008c, 1/1115037259926531157076762586683640948982176c, 1/2230074519853062314153525173367281897964352c, 1/4460149039706124628307050346734563759928672c, 1/8920298079412249256614100693469151998557344c, 1/1784059615882449851322820138693823997111488c, 1/3568119231764899702645640277387647994222976c, 1/7136238463529799405291280554775295988445952c, 1/14272476927059598810582561109550591976891904c, 1/2854495385411919762116512221910118353783808c, 1/5708990770823839524233024443820236707567616c, 1/11417981541647679048466048887640473415135328c, 1/22835963083295358096932097775280946830270752c, 1/45671926166590716193864195550561893660541504c, 1/913438523331814323877283911011237873210883008c, 1/182687704666362864775456782202247574642166112c, 1/365375409332725729550913564404495149284332224c, 1/730750818665451459101827128808990298568664448c, 1/1461501637330902918203654276177980597137328896c, 1/2923003274661805836407308552355961194274657792c, 1/5846006549323611672814617104711922388549315584c, 1/1169201309864722334562923420942384677709871168c, 1/2338402619329444669125846841884769355419742336c, 1/4676805238658889338251693683769538710839484672c, 1/9353610477317778676503387367539077421678969344c, 1/1870722095463555735300677473507814843357938688c, 1/3741444190927111470601354947015629686715977376c, 1/7482888381854222941202709894031259373431954752c, 1/14965776763708445882405419788062597546863909504c, 1/29931553527416891764810839576125195137278219008c, 1/59863107054833783529621679152250390274555640192c, 1/11972621410966756705924334830450078054911280384c, 1/23945242821933513411848669660900156099822560768c, 1/47890485643867026823697339321800312119964521536c, 1/95780971287734053647394678643600624239929042872c, 1/191561942575468107294789357287201284798580851444c, 1/38312388515093621458957871457440257559976170288c, 1/76624777030187242917915742914880515119952340576c, 1/153249554060374485835831485897610230239904681152c, 1/306499108120748971671662971795220460479809362304c, 1/612998216241497943343325943590440920959618724608c, 1/12259964248299958866866518718088180419193744922112c, 1/24519928496599917733733037436176360838386889644224c, 1/49039856993199835467466074872352721676773779288448c, 1/9807971398639967093493214974470544335354755857296c, 1/19615942797279934186986429949401088670709517144576c, 1/39231885594559868373972859898802177341419034289152c, 1/78463771189119736747945719797604354682838068578304c, 1/156927542378239473495891435995208709365676137156608c, 1/313855084756478946991782871990417418731352274313216c, 1/627710169512957893983565743980834837462704548626432c, 1/12554203390259157879671314879616786749240909732528c, 1/25108406780518315759342629759233573498481819465056c, 1/50216813561036631518685259518467146996936398930112c, 1/100433627122073263173370519036934293993872797860224c, 1/200867254244146526346741038073868587987745595720448c, 1/401734508488293052693482076147737175975491191440896c, 1/803469016976586105386964152295474351950982382881792c, 1/160693803395317221077392830559094870390196475736352c, 1/321387606790634442154785661118189740780392951472704c, 1/642775213581268884309571322236379481600785902945408c, 1/1285550427162537768619142644472758963201578005890816c, 1/257110085432507553723822848894551792640315601178132c, 1/514220170865015107447645697789103485280631202356264c, 1/1028440341730030214895291395578206970561264047112528c, 1/2056880683460060429790582791156413941122528094225056c, 1/4113761366920120859581165582312827882245056148510112c, 1/8227522733840241719162331164625654764490113022016224c, 1/1645504546768048343832466232925130932880226044402448c, 1/3291009093536096687664932465850261865760452088804896c, 1/6582018187072193375329864931700523731520904177609792c, 1/13164036374144386750659729834001047463041808355219584c, 1/26328072748288773501319459668002094926083616710439168c, 1/52656145496577547002638919336004189852167233420878336c, 1/105312290973155094005277838672008379704334466841756672c, 1/210624581946310188010555677344016759408668933683513344c, 1/421249163892620376021111354688033518817337867367026688c, 1/842498327785240752042222709376067037634675734734053376c, 1/1684996655770481504084445418752134075269351469468106752c, 1/3369993311540963008168890837504268150538702938936213504c, 1/6739986623081926016337781675008536210777405877872427008c, 1/13479973246163852032675563350017072421554811755744854016c, 1/2695994649232770406535112670003414484310962351148970832c, 1/5391989298465540813070225340006828968621924702297941664c, 1/107839785969310816261404508800136579372438494045958832c, 1/215679571938621632522809017600273157544876988091917664c, 1/431359143877243265045618035200546315089753976183835328c, 1/862718287754486530091236070401092630179507952367670656c, 1/1725436575508973060182472140802185260359015904735341312c, 1/3450873151017946120364944281604370520718031809470682624c, 1/6901746302035892240729888563208741041436063618941365248c, 1/1380349260407178448145977712641742208287212723788271072c, 1/2760698520814356896291955453283484416574425447576542144c, 1/5521397041628713792583910906566968831548850895153084288c, 1/11042794083257427581167821813133937663097701790306168576c, 1/22085588166514855162335643626267875326195403580612337152c, 1/4417117633302971032467128725253575065239080716122467424c, 1/8834235266605942064934257450507150130478161432244934848c, 1/17668470533211884129868514901014300260956322864489869792c, 1/353369410664237682597370298020286005219126457289797384c, 1/706738821328475365194740596040572010438252914579594768c, 1/1413477642656950730389481192081144020876505829159189536c, 1/2826955285313901460778962384162288041753011658318379072c, 1/5653910570627802921557924768324576033506023316636740144c, 1/11307821141255605843115849536649152670121066633273480288c, 1/22615642282511211686231699073298305340242133266546960576c, 1/45231284565022423372463398146586010680484266533093921152c, 1/90462569130044846744926796293172021360096533066187842304c, 1/180925138260089693489853592586344042720193066133375684608c, 1/361850276520179386979707185172688085440386132266751369216c, 1/723700553040358773959414370345376170880772264533502732432c, 1/144740110608071754791882874069075234176154452906700546464c, 1/289480221216143509583765748138150468352308905813401092928c, 1/57896044243228701916753149627630093670461781162680218576c, 1/115792088486457403833506299255260187400923622325360437152c, 1/231584176972914807667012598510520374801847244650720832c, 1/463168353945829615334025197021040749603694489301441664c, 1/926336707891659230668050394042081492007388978602883296c, 1/1852673415783318461336100788084162984014779557205765952c, 1/3705346831566636922672201576168325968029559114411511904c, 1/7410693663133273845344403152336651936059118228823022016c, 1/14821387322666547690688806304673273872118244576466044032c, 1/2964277464533309538137761260934654774423648915293208864c, 1/5928554929066619076275522521869309548847367830586417728c, 1/11857109858133238152551045043738618977694735661172835456c, 1/23714219716266476305102090087477237955389471322345670912c, 1/47428439432532952610204180174954475910778942644691341824c, 1/94856878865065905220408360349908951821557885289382683648c, 1/189713757730131810440816720699817844431115710578765367296c, 1/37942751546026362088163444139963568886223142155753134592c, 1/75885503092052724176326888279927137772446283311506867184c, 1/151771006184105448352653765559854275544892566623013734368c, 1/303542012368210896705307531119708551089785133246027467736c, 1/607084024736421793410615102239417101799570266492054935472c, 1/1214168049472843586821230244788342203599140532984109870944c, 1/2428336098945687173642460489576684407
---	--	---

BOSTON, SUNDAY, AUGUST 12, 1900.

Sherrard has been cutting all interest rowed around New York, and it appeared to a lot of oarmen as if this was about the ex-champion's last chance to win the crown again.

Continued on Page A5, Column 3

[illegible]

SALVIDERE wins rich Saratoga Special. NELSON says he will make Gans fight hard. A. A. A. tour opened up many routes for motorists.

Post Sunday American

Automobile and Sporting Section

BOSTON, SUNDAY, AUGUST 12, 1906.

BOSTON SPLIT HONORS WITH DETROIT.

Collins's Men Land First Game After Thirteen Innings of Exciting Baseball.

WINTER'S CURVES EASY IN SECOND CONTEST.

Pilgrims' Star Catcher Tom Doran and He Plays in Both Games.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

HOW THE CLUBS STAND.

GAMES YESTERDAY.

GAMES SCHEDULED TO-DAY.

DETROIT, Aug. 11.—Detroit and Boston split honors in today's double-header. Collins's men, who were the victors in the first contest, when they won by thirteen runs, while the Pilgrims, who were the victors in the second contest, when they won by two runs.

With one out in the first inning, Collins's men, who were the victors in the first contest, when they won by thirteen runs, while the Pilgrims, who were the victors in the second contest, when they won by two runs.

Schaefer's Awful Fling. With one out in the first inning, Collins's men, who were the victors in the first contest, when they won by thirteen runs, while the Pilgrims, who were the victors in the second contest, when they won by two runs.

Tigers Started Well. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Long Distance Hits. Besides hitting frequently the Detroit batters secured a grand slam in the first inning of the first game.

First Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Second Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Third Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Fourth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Fifth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Sixth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Seventh Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Eighth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Ninth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Tenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Eleventh Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Twelfth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Thirteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Fourteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

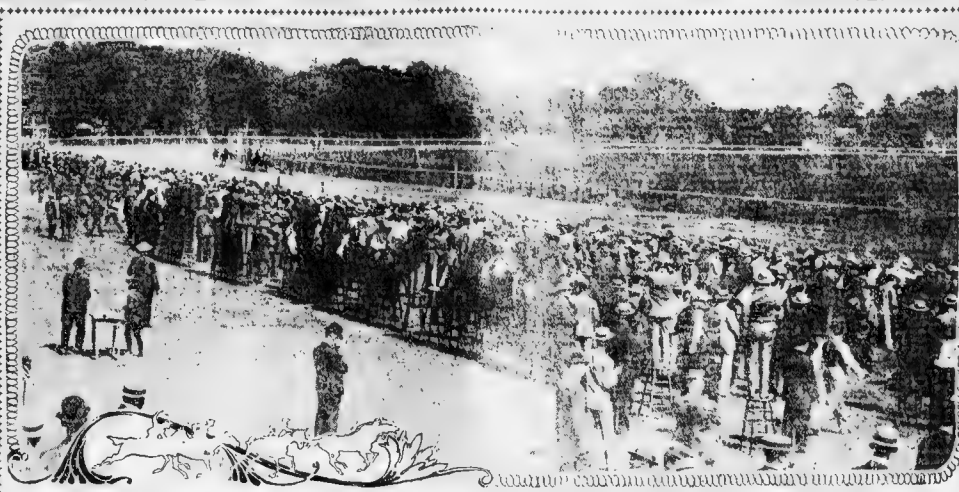

Fifteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Sixteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Seventeenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Eighteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Nineteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

SCENE AT THE SARATOGA TRACK—BOOKMAKERS WATCHING A RACE IN FRONT OF BETTING PAVILION.

Salvidere Wins Rich Special at Saratoga Before Immense Crowd

Special to Boston Sunday American. Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Salvidere won the Saratoga Special at this afternoon's race, beating the field by a wide margin.

Salvidere, a four-year-old colt, owned by F. H. Hitt and John K. Hitt, was the favorite at 2 to 1. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

Salvidere won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

THE GRAND CIRCUIT Jesse Burkett Set Upon By Angry Crowd After His Team Lost to Lynn

Only One Favorite, The Innerton, Wins, Taking 2:17 Trot Honors.

Buffalo, Aug. 11.—The grand circuit meeting closed at Buffalo today, with the Innerton taking the 2:17 trot honors.

The Innerton, a four-year-old colt, owned by J. M. Gentry, was the favorite at 2 to 1. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

The Innerton won the race by a wide margin, beating the field by a wide margin. He was ridden by jockey J. M. Gentry.

TITUS wins senior singles at Worcester Regatta. POLICE called to protect umpire at South End grounds. BOSTON Americans win and lose game at Detroit.

WILD SCENES ON SOUTH END GROUNDS.

Costans Score Winning Run and St. Louis Players Rush at the Umpire.

POLICE PREVENT CROWD FROM MOBING GRADY.

Jenny's Men Win Both Games, the First Going Eleven Innings.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

HOW THE CLUBS STAND.

GAMES YESTERDAY.

GAMES SCHEDULED TO-DAY.

DETROIT, Aug. 11.—Detroit and Boston split honors in today's double-header. Collins's men, who were the victors in the first contest, when they won by thirteen runs, while the Pilgrims, who were the victors in the second contest, when they won by two runs.

With one out in the first inning, Collins's men, who were the victors in the first contest, when they won by thirteen runs, while the Pilgrims, who were the victors in the second contest, when they won by two runs.

Schaefer's Awful Fling. With one out in the first inning, Collins's men, who were the victors in the first contest, when they won by thirteen runs, while the Pilgrims, who were the victors in the second contest, when they won by two runs.

Tigers Started Well. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Long Distance Hits. Besides hitting frequently the Detroit batters secured a grand slam in the first inning of the first game.

First Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Second Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Third Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Fourth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Fifth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Sixth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Seventh Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Eighth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Ninth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Tenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Eleventh Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Twelfth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Thirteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Fourteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Fifteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Sixteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Seventeenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Eighteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Nineteenth Game. Detroit, Aug. 11.—In a trial against the track record and last year's time, the Broncho today broke both when he paced.

Continued on Page 44, Column 1.

ROWING NATIONAL REGATTA AT WORCESTER TROTTER GOOD RACES AT READVILLE YACHTING CANADIAN WON RACE FOR CUPS ATHLETICS

EDWARD TAKES TWO CUPS AT READVILLE.

Spirited Racing Enjoyed at the Matinee of the Driving Club.

It was fortunate for the members of the Boston Driving Club that the weather was so good today, for the matinee of the driving club at Readville track yesterday, when the weather was so good, was a very successful one. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was a postpaid matter for Mr. Edwards, the driver of the horse, that he was able to win the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Among the visitors from the city were Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, who were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

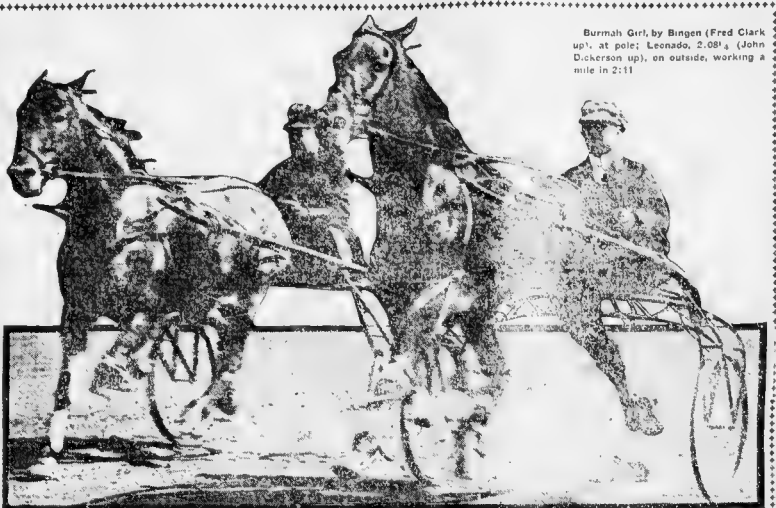

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

NEW ENGLAND TURF ARE EXPECTABLY WAITING FOR OPENING OF GRAND CIRCUIT RACES AT READVILLE TRACK.

WORKOUTS FOR THE COMING GRAND CIRCUIT RACES AT READVILLE TRACK.

First Big Race Will Be Held Week from To-morrow, Rich Massachusetts, Worth $9,000, Will Be Feature of the Meeting, with Twenty-Three Fast Trotters on the List.

BY EDWARD E. COGSWELL.

With the best of the season now over, the racing season at Readville track is about to open. The first big race will be held week from to-morrow, when a rich Massachusetts race worth $9,000 will be the feature of the meeting. There will be twenty-three fast trotters on the list.

Among the horses expected to be in the race are Mr. Edwards, who won the race at Readville track yesterday, and Mr. Edwards, who won the race at Readville track yesterday.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

It was in the following event that Mr. Edwards won the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Blue Hill on First Day.

The first day of the racing season at Readville track was a very successful one. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

El Milagro the Favorite.

El Milagro was the favorite in the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Thursday is the Big Day.

Thursday is the big day of the racing season at Readville track. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Hard to Pick Winner.

It was hard to pick the winner of the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

JORDAN MARSH WINE WINNERS THIS EASTERN CAPTURES THE SENIOR SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP AT NATIONAL REGATTA

Continued from Page 10.

About the biggest surprise came in the form of the victory of the Jordan Marsh team, which won the senior singles championship. The team was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Marsh, who were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Bennett Hugged the Shore.

Bennett hugged the shore during the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Nonpareil Make Fine Showing.

Nonpareil made a fine showing in the race. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

Leonister, 4; Everett, 3.

Leonister won 4 and Everett won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

The Aerocar of Detroit Leads in Its First Year

"The Car for To-day, To-morrow and Years to Come—Built by Practical Men."

BY ALEX SCHWALZACH.

The Aerocar of Detroit is a car that is built by practical men. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past.

The Aerocar of Detroit is a car that is built by practical men. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past.

No Cooling Devices.

The Aerocar of Detroit has no cooling devices. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past.

High Power Runabouts.

The Aerocar of Detroit has high power runabouts. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past. It is a car that is built for the future. It is a car that is built for the present. It is a car that is built for the past.

REEL AND JIG STEPS MIXED WITH DASHES.

The first night of the season at Readville track was a very successful one. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

IT COSTS NOTHING TO TALK OVER YOUR CASE WITH ME

It costs nothing to talk over your case with me. I am a doctor who has been practicing for many years. I have a large number of patients who come to me for advice. I am a doctor who has been practicing for many years. I have a large number of patients who come to me for advice.

Men's Diseases Are My Specialty

Men's diseases are my specialty. I am a doctor who has been practicing for many years. I have a large number of patients who come to me for advice. I am a doctor who has been practicing for many years. I have a large number of patients who come to me for advice.

Men's Diseases Are My Specialty

Men's diseases are my specialty. I am a doctor who has been practicing for many years. I have a large number of patients who come to me for advice. I am a doctor who has been practicing for many years. I have a large number of patients who come to me for advice.

HILLSIDE, 18; ATLANTIC, 13.

Hillside won 18 and Atlantic won 13. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

HILLSIDE, 18; ATLANTIC, 13.

Hillside won 18 and Atlantic won 13. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

NEPESSET-DORCHESTER, 5; MERRYMOUNTS, 3.

Nepesset-Dorchester won 5 and Merrymounts won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

NEPESSET-DORCHESTER, 5; MERRYMOUNTS, 3.

Nepesset-Dorchester won 5 and Merrymounts won 3. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

ATTELCAREY WEDNESDAY.

Attelcarey won on Wednesday. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

ATTELCAREY WEDNESDAY.

Attelcarey won on Wednesday. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much. The weather was so good that the members of the club were able to enjoy the race very much.

BLOOD POISON
FOR MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS
WE HAVE BEEN THE CARE OF BLOOD POISON
Blood Poison is a disease that is caused by the bacteria of the blood. It is a disease that is caused by the bacteria of the blood. It is a disease that is caused by the bacteria of the blood.

COOK REMEDY CO.
111 N. 10th St., St. Paul, Minn.
This is a company that is dedicated to the treatment of blood poison. It is a company that is dedicated to the treatment of blood poison. It is a company that is dedicated to the treatment of blood poison.

Dr. Weinstein
218 Tremont St.
Boston, Mass.
Dr. Weinstein is a doctor who has been practicing for many years. He has a large number of patients who come to him for advice. He is a doctor who has been practicing for many years. He has a large number of patients who come to him for advice.

TOUR OF A. A. A. OPENS NEW ROUTES.

Interesting and Picturesque Territory Heretofore Unknown Except to Few Autoists.

BY J. C. KERRISON.

Whether you be a motorist or not, you are sure to be interested in the recent tour of the A. A. A. there is no denying the fact that it opened up to the motorist one of the most interesting and picturesque territories that can be found on the Atlantic coast. It is a territory heretofore known to but few motorists, and it is a territory that is now being opened up to the public.

Pleasant Auto Drive.

A pleasant drive was made from Boston to Quebec via Newbury, Portland, Head Springs, Waterville, and Jackson to the western city of St. Louis. The tour was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one. The route was a most interesting one, and it was a most successful one. The tour was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

Like Traveling in France.

To be sure, the tour was not a most successful one. It was a most successful one. The tour was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one. The tour was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

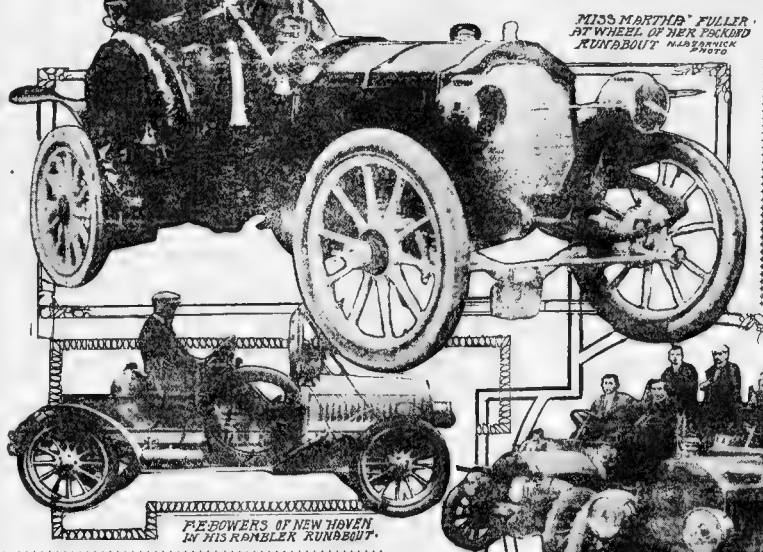

NO SET-UP IN PATENT SUIT

Throughout the hot weather of July, when the sun was so hot and the roads were so hot, the A. A. A. was so hot and the roads were so hot. The A. A. A. was so hot and the roads were so hot. The A. A. A. was so hot and the roads were so hot.

NO ACCIDENT IN LONG AUTO RUN

George A. Goss, president of the Boston Automobile Club, has just returned from a long auto run. He has just returned from a long auto run. He has just returned from a long auto run.

GROUP OF PROMINENT AUTOMOBILISTS RECENTLY IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Miss Fuller an Expert in Driving an Auto

Although not figuring in track or roadster races, Miss Martha Fuller of Malden is recognized as one of the most expert of drivers. She has been in the past few years displayed an ability to handle a car to the best of the male operators.

Long Tour Big Boom for Air-Cooled Cars

No motor event of any character has done as much to advance the air-cooled car as the recent tour of the A. A. A. The tour was a most successful one. The tour was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

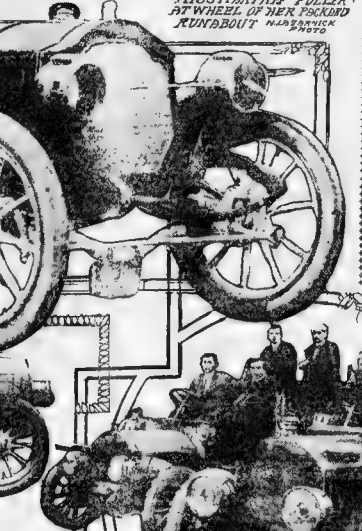

Columbia Cars Attract Attention at Carnival

During the recent automobile carnival at Breton Woods there was an interesting gathering of the Columbia cars, comprising the two machines which had gone through the Glidden tour with remarkable success and the big car from Boston which during the week won honors on the Crawford North Hill climb.

F. E. BOWERS HAS A NOVEL CAR

F. E. Bowers of New Haven came to Boston last week and displayed to his admiring friends of this section something new in the way of a high-class runabout. The car was a most successful one. The car was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

MISS MARTHA FULLER AT WHEEL OF HER PACKARD RUNABOUT

PEEPOWERS OF NEW HAVEN IN HIS RAMBLER RUNABOUT

Although not figuring in track or roadster races, Miss Martha Fuller of Malden is recognized as one of the most expert of drivers. She has been in the past few years displayed an ability to handle a car to the best of the male operators.

CHAS. F. BERRY IN HIS COLUMBIA CAR

Although not figuring in track or roadster races, Miss Martha Fuller of Malden is recognized as one of the most expert of drivers. She has been in the past few years displayed an ability to handle a car to the best of the male operators.

J. H. McALPIN IN HIS COLUMBIA CAR

Although not figuring in track or roadster races, Miss Martha Fuller of Malden is recognized as one of the most expert of drivers. She has been in the past few years displayed an ability to handle a car to the best of the male operators.

PIERCE HOLDS TROPHY

As the Glidden trophy belongs to Perry then the Buffalo Automobile Club, which has the trophy, is a most successful one. The trophy was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

SHOCK ABSORBERS ON AMBULANCES

An entirely new way for shock absorbers has been found by the White Sewing Machine Company, which is a most successful one. The shock absorbers were made by the A. A. A. and were a most successful one.

LOCOMOBILE SALES

Among the most successful of the locomobile sales, the A. A. A. was a most successful one. The locomobiles were made by the A. A. A. and were a most successful one.

1907 CARTER CAR

The 1907 Carter car is a most successful one. The car was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

"Stevens-Duryea" Model "L"

The Stevens-Duryea Model "L" is a most successful one. The car was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

THE MORRISON-TYLER MOTOR CO.

The Morrison-Tyler Motor Co. is a most successful one. The company was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

MAXWELL-BRISCOE-BOSTON CO.

The Maxwell-Briscoe-Boston Co. is a most successful one. The company was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

EARLY AUTO SHOW IN NEW ROUTE FAVORED BY MORRELL FOR GLIDDEN TOUR.

The announcement, on the part of the Automobile Club of America, that it will hold its early show at the Grand Central Palace, N. Y., during the first week of the month of August, is a most successful one. The show was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

STEVENS-DURYEA NEXT SEASON'S CARS

The Stevens-Duryea Company will place two 1907 motor cars on the market in 1907, one of thirty and the other of fifty-horsepower. The cars were made by the A. A. A. and were a most successful one.

PIERCE HOLDS TROPHY

As the Glidden trophy belongs to Perry then the Buffalo Automobile Club, which has the trophy, is a most successful one. The trophy was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

SHOCK ABSORBERS ON AMBULANCES

An entirely new way for shock absorbers has been found by the White Sewing Machine Company, which is a most successful one. The shock absorbers were made by the A. A. A. and were a most successful one.

LOCOMOBILE SALES

Among the most successful of the locomobile sales, the A. A. A. was a most successful one. The locomobiles were made by the A. A. A. and were a most successful one.

1907 CARTER CAR

The 1907 Carter car is a most successful one. The car was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

"Stevens-Duryea" Model "L"

The Stevens-Duryea Model "L" is a most successful one. The car was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

THE MORRISON-TYLER MOTOR CO.

The Morrison-Tyler Motor Co. is a most successful one. The company was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

MAXWELL-BRISCOE-BOSTON CO.

The Maxwell-Briscoe-Boston Co. is a most successful one. The company was made by the A. A. A. and was a most successful one.

REAL ESTATE

JOSIAH F. PRESCOTT.

THE ONLY OFFICE HANDLING STRICTLY
Valuable from a point of view, for a number of years, the business of the office has been to handle the real estate of the city, and to do so in a manner that has made it the most successful of its kind in the city. The office has a large number of properties for sale, and a large number of properties for rent. The office is located at 100 Washington St., and is open from 10 to 12 o'clock, and from 2 to 5 o'clock.

C. E. JENNINGS.

TEN-ACRE FARM—$2,500.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

EDWARD T. HARRINGTON CO. BROCK'S REAL ESTATE AGENCY

294 Washington St., Cor. School.
"WATERVIEW FARM."
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

MONTHLY INCOME $125

ON AN INVESTMENT OF $100.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

FARMS

ANYWHERE IN NEW ENGLAND.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

VISIT

Ardmore Park FOREST HILLS
Only 3 Minutes from Forest Hills Square and where will be the Largest Elevated Terminal in the World.
$50,000.00
Paid Out on Improvements
Quick Action Here Sure to Make and Save You Money

EMERSON PARK NOTICE.

EMERSON PARK NOTICE.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

REVERE.

REVERE.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

Big Timber Tract and Mill.

Big Timber Tract and Mill.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

COURT PARK, WINTHROP.

COURT PARK, WINTHROP.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

FOR 3 ASSIGNED VALUE.

FOR 3 ASSIGNED VALUE.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

LYONS, 89 Court St., Room 2

LYONS, 89 Court St., Room 2
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WYOMOUTH.

WYOMOUTH.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

HYDE PARK—2-Family House.

HYDE PARK—2-Family House.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

600-Egg Incubator, Brooder.

600-Egg Incubator, Brooder.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WILKINS & OWENS.

WILKINS & OWENS.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

MALDEN.

MALDEN.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

Stevens Farm Agency

Stevens Farm Agency
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

TRUCK AND FRUIT

TRUCK AND FRUIT
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

BEAT THIS IF YOU CAN

BEAT THIS IF YOU CAN
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

FOR SALE OR MIGHT EXCHANGE

FOR SALE OR MIGHT EXCHANGE
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

BUY THE 10%

BUY THE 10%
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

AN ESTABLISHED BUSINESS

AN ESTABLISHED BUSINESS
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

REAL ESTATE AUCTIONS.

REAL ESTATE AUCTIONS.
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

CAMP LOTS $50

CAMP LOTS $50
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WE GUARANTEE TO SELL

WE GUARANTEE TO SELL
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

SOON FIXTURES FOR IMMEDIATE DELIVERY

SOON FIXTURES FOR IMMEDIATE DELIVERY
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WANTED: MAN WITH $200

WANTED: MAN WITH $200
A beautiful farm, 10 acres, with a large house, and a large number of outbuildings. The farm is located in the city, and is a very desirable property. The price is $2,500.

WIFE OF TAUNTON MAYOR TO AID HIM IN LAW PRACTICE

Mrs. Tracy, One of Bay State's Remarkable Women, to Take Next Ear Examinations.

Taunton, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Florence A. Tracy, wife of Mayor John B. Tracy, is studying law with the purpose of being a professional mediator to her energetic and self-made husband. Although she does the housework and a good deal of the family business, she is not afraid to take the law. She has been studying for some time at the law office of Mr. Tracy and her husband. She will take the next ear examinations.

Her husband is called the "Boston Mayor" because he has been so long in the world has been remarkable for his wife's achievements have been unusual, too.

She had been a compositor on a Taunton newspaper. As a compositor she had to work in a noisy and dusty place. She was a woman of many talents. She was a woman of many talents. She was a woman of many talents.

THOMAS J. LANE IS DEAD OF CANCER

Thomas J. Lane, a member of the board of trustees of Boston since the establishment of the board in 1878, and chairman until he resigned last Monday, died at his summer home at Weymouth Heights yesterday.

Mr. Lane had been in bad health for some time, suffering from a cancer of the stomach. He was an undertaker, and lived at No. 129 Haver street, East Boston. He was fifty-three years of age and leaves a wife and eight children. The funeral will be held from his late residence Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

RAYMOND'S SALES JOINT SCHEME.

Favors Southern Sea Voyage for Run-Down City Fathers Who Are to Return Flag.

LIGHTING COMMITTEE'S WRATH TO BE APPEASED

Members of the light special committee of the city council appointed for the alleged purpose of investigating alleged mismanagement of lighting plants were much yesterday when learning that Mayor Bell would not only decline to take any action in the matter, but that he would also appoint a committee of the city fathers to investigate the matter.

Awaiting Mayor's Sanction.
The order for the appointment of this committee is now held up in the committee on public improvements, where it will be held until the Mayor's sanction is given. The Mayor would not only decline to take any action in the matter, but that he would also appoint a committee of the city fathers to investigate the matter.

Bel May Oppose Junket.
The order for the New Orleans junket, it is understood, will be opposed by Alderman Bell, who maintains that the city should be kept out of the matter. The order for the New Orleans junket, it is understood, will be opposed by Alderman Bell, who maintains that the city should be kept out of the matter.

PRIVATE TUTOR FOR PARAGON'S BABY CHIMPANZEE.

Wonderful "Teddy" Now Eats with Knife and Fork and Wears Men's Clothes—Also Makes Apt Pupil at Piano.

Private tutor to a promising and personable baby chimpanzee that is the pet of Professor Tennant of the Boston Zoo. The infant wonder, although only eight months old, can now eat with a knife and fork, and is learning to play the piano. The baby is named "Teddy" and is the pet of Professor Tennant.

Have Two Children.
Two children have come into the Tracy home. The eldest is little Florence, who is three years old, and has the blue eyes and golden hair of her mother and the same of her father. She has developed an interest in the piano and is learning to play.

Thomas J. Lane is a member of the board of trustees of Boston since the establishment of the board in 1878, and chairman until he resigned last Monday, died at his summer home at Weymouth Heights yesterday.

CASHIER OF WRECKED BANK IN PRISON CELL Police in World Chase Seek Chief in Loot of $2,500,000

THREE OF PRINCIPALS IN CHICAGO BANK WRECK.

In the center of the picture is shown the missing head of the looted Milwaukee Avenue institution, whose depositors have lost $2,500,000 in the crash. On his left is the brilliant woman who is said to have fled with him. On his right is the young wife of Vice President Stensland, son of the fugitive. Below is a photograph of a crowd of the depositors standing in front of the closed bank.

Missing President Now Said to Be on Way to Mexico—Frenzied Depositors Assail Home of Dead Teller.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Jail doors opened this afternoon to reveal the missing cashier of the looted Milwaukee Avenue bank, and he is still in flight on a flight in a group of men. The missing cashier of the looted Milwaukee Avenue bank, and he is still in flight on a flight in a group of men.

Charges Against Herling.
Many years of imprisonment are staring Herling in the face if he is convicted. The charges against him are many and serious. He is accused of many crimes, including the theft of money and the destruction of property.

Stensland Seen in Northwest.
After Cashier Herling's surrender, the police search for Stensland more eagerly than ever. He has been seen in the Northwest, and the police are now searching for him. The police are now searching for him.

WOMAN GAGGED, $468 STOLEN, MAN SLEEPS.

Burglar Leaves Letter Saying
He Took Money Because He Hated Its Owner.

TWO MASKED MEN BIND VICTIM WITH SHEET

Fremington, N. H., Aug. 11.—While her husband slept in another room, two masked burglars entered the home, gagged and bound Mrs. James Lord, carried her from the house and then returned and robbed the family of about $468.

Left Threatening Note.
A letter, which was found on the kitchen floor, which purported to give an explanation of the robbery. The letter was in the name of the burglars.

Suffers from Shock.
Mrs. Lord, who is fifty years of age, suffered severely from the shock she experienced. She was taken to the hospital and is now recovering from her shock.

Fear Rescue for LYNCHER IN PRISON

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 11.—Governor Glenn has ordered large and exposed to the opinion that the Supreme Court will sustain the legality of the action of the special court that tried and convicted George Hall, accused of lynching, at Salisbury.

Causes and Results of Chicago Bank Looting.

THE CAUSES:
Speculation is by President Paul O. Stensland. Betting on horse races by President Stensland. Money he is alleged to have spent upon Mrs. Leone Langdon-Reed.

THE RESULTS:
Teller Frank Kowalski committed suicide. Depositor J. G. Visser dropped dead as he heard of looting. Theodore Stensland, vice-president, arrested. Fifty thousand depositors clamored for $4,000,000.

SEMI-ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE
STILL GREATER REDUCTION

T. H. Lane & Co.
384 WASHINGTON STREET.